Newton Boy Cited For His Courage

Donald Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller of 423 Ward Street, Newton Centre, has been cited for a courageous deed by his commanding officer.

In a letter to Donald's parents, C. E. Landis, LCDR, USN, Commanding Officer of the U.S.S. Thaddeus Parker USN, states:

"It is under extraordinary circumstances that a commanding officer would write to one of his men's parents. But in this case I feel it is my duty to tell you of a courageous deed your son performed at sea."

"While the ship was enroute to Florida . . . we were riding in rough seas. There was a man on deck tying to tie down some gear. The ship took a severe roll and a powder case fell and hit him, knocking him over the side. Your son happened to be in the vicinity and upon seeing him fall he immediately passed the word, 'Man overboard' and without waiting for a boat to be lowered away he dove in after the man.

The one-story brick building, recently completed by the city at a cost of $45,000, has been a major goal of the Improvement Association since shortly after World War II. The second of its type to be built in Newton, it provides dressing rooms, showers, lavatories, a team room and storage space for athletic equipment. The playground is used extensively by students from Day Junior High and is headquarters of the Newton North Little League.

Expected to be present at the dedication ceremonies, which will include a flag-raising, are the following who have worked towards the buildings completion: Recreation Commissioner Evan C. Johnson; Alderman Stuart Spaulding, president of the Newtonville Improvement Assn., and currently chairman of the city's public building committee; Alderman William R. Mattson; School Committee Member Genevieve Oncley; George W. Taylor, Jr., past president of the group; and Fred C. Alexander, who has served as secretary of the Improvement Assn. for the past 40 years.

MTA Extension Wins Preliminary Approval

Five-Session Tennis Course To Be Offered

Extension of the MTA system over the Highland branch of the Boston and Albany railroad won preliminary approval Monday when the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs voted 9 to 6 in favor of a bill giving such authorization. The proposed extension is expected to pass the Legislature.

The bill would allow the MTA to pay the Boston and Albany railroad $600,000 for its Highland branch right of way and spend $10.6 million for the extension.

The extension plan will require approval of 85 percent of the MTA mayors advisory committee, but this approval is almost a foregone conclusion as Mayor John B. Hynes of Boston is on record as favoring the proposal.

This Advisory Committee is made up of mayors and selectmen of the 14 communities in the MTA district. Boston has 64 percent of the 35 percent vote required.

Aides to Cancer Research Makes Award to Hospital

Acting on the recommendation of its board of medical advisors, Aides to Cancer Research, an independent organization made up of dedicated, public-spirited mothers and housewives in Newton and nearby communities, has presented to Boston City Hospital a $157 award of funds for cancer research.

The cash award was presented by Dr. John F. Conlin, director of the hospital, for research being carried on in the gastro-intestinal research laboratory of the Mallory Institute of Pathology at the hospital. It was received in behalf of Dr. Conlin by Dr. Norman Zamcheck of the laboratory.

Dr. Zamcheck is a resident of Newton, making his home with his family at 63 Kenwood avenue. He holds appointments at both Boston University and Harvard University Medical Schools. He has been engaged in cancer research in the gastro-intestinal field for many years.

Dr. Conlin highly praised the work of the Aides to Cancer Research in expressing his appreciation for the gift. It is the second time Boston City Hospital has been nominated for an Aides to Cancer Research award in the nine year existence of the latter organization.

Other institutions which have been assisted in the past include: Beth Israel Hospital; Boston Lying-In Hospital; Boston University; Brandeis Uni-tion of the great importance of gastro-intestinal research and the work being done in this direction at Boston City Hospital.

Since research on gastric cancer is so closely bound to the treatment of patients with virtually any sort of gastro-intestinal disease, the Gastro-Intestinal Laboratory at the Boston City Hospital is attempting to devise methods for the early recognition of this lesion.

Because the intestinal tract is not readily accessible to the physician and he must rely heavily on a wide variety of direct methods such as x-ray diagnosis and the use of instruments which visualize the interior of the stomach and intestines. Secretion of these organs must be obtained by introduction of tubes and studied by chemical and microscopic methods.

One patient with gastro-intestinal symptoms may require the skilled attention of many, including medically trained doctors, surgeons, pathologists, radiologists and others before his condition is satisfactorily recognized and treated.

A high degree of collaboration is necessary to accomplish this. Boston City Hospital provides excellent facilities and highly trained personnel for this purpose. Indeed, both in the matter of facilities and personnel it is among the outstanding.

It is clear at this time that although more efficient diagnostic methods such as enzyme determination, biopsies, secretion analyses and others are coming into more common usage, it is only through fundamental studies of the chemical processes of cells will the cancer potential of any cell be clearly understood and successfully combated.

It is to forward these studies that the gastro-intestinal cancer research at Boston City Hospital is being devoted.

To Give Talk on Right of Choice

WILMER C. SWARTLEY

Wilmer C. Swartley, vice president of Westinghouse Broadcasting operation in Boston and a West Newton resident, will be the main speaker for the 80th Annual Meeting of the Newton YMCA to be held Monday, May 6, at 6:30 p.m. His subject will be "Our Inalienable Right of Choice."

Born in New Wales, Pennsylvania, Mr. Swartley is a graduate of Cornell University in mechanical engineering. After previous Westinghouse experience in Pennsylvania and Indiana, Mr. Swartley came to Boston as general manager of WBZ in Boston and Springfield in 1940. First general manager of WBZ-TV, Mr. Swartley was made a Westinghouse vice president in May 1955.

Mr. Swartley was president of Boston Rotary Club in 1955-56 and is active in many civic affairs. He is a former member of the Board of Directors of the Sewickley, Pennsylvania YMCA. Mr. Swartley is married, has one daughter, and lives with his family at 254 Highland Avenue in West Newton.

Plans for the 80th Annual Meeting have been made by a special committee headed by H. Edgar Pray, member of the Board of Directors of the Newton YMCA, and active in the youth work of the Association.

WILMER C. SWARTLEY

There will be a special dramatic presentation by a youth work group.

Presiding at the business meeting will be President George R. Strandberg. A financial report will be presented by Charles E. Smith, treasurer, and a program report for the year 1956 will be given by Alex R. Miller, general secretary.

The Newton Y is a charter member of the Newton Community Chest and of the Newton Community Council.

Once the facts have been ascertained thru investigations, the prosecution is the responsibility of the Attorney General and not the F.B.I., the speaker pointed out to correct a popular misconception. Likewise, Internal Revenue Department handles income tax violations; Secret Service work is part of the Treasury department; smugglers are handled by U.S. Customs and mail frauds and thefts come within the Post Office jurisdiction.

During 1956, over 14,000 fugitives from justice were rounded up thru F.B.I. efforts.

He spoke of the bureau's role in non-criminal identification. In an airplane disaster in 1955, 47 out of 66 passengers were identified thru fingerprints on file at the F.B.I. in Washington.

Raymond C. Wass, club vice-president, introduced the speaker. Albert M. Kreider, president, presided.

Senators Philip G. Bowker of Brookline and Donald L. Gibbs of Newton, among the dissenters from the committee's favorable report, agreed to accept an adverse report on another matter.

This was their petition for an investigation of the Highland branch roadbed to determine its safety.

The favorable report rendered to the legislature by its Committee on Metropolitan Affairs would appear to indicate that the necessary legislation to effect the acquisition of the Highland branch by the MTA is now only a matter of time and that immediate steps will be taken, once the bill is passed, to convert the railroad branch into a rapid transit extension of the MTA system.

Says Roadbed
Not In Good Condition

Senator Donald L. Gibbs (R-Newton), accompanied by Senator Philip G. Bowker (R-Brookline), inspected two miles of the Newton roadbed of the Boston & Albany railroad's Highland branch Saturday and said in their opinion it "definitely is not in good shape."

They said the $50,000 the B & A plans to spend for repairs on the line would make the roadbed "just above the danger line."

According to the senators, the railroad had two crews replacing ties with other second-hand ties taken from an abandoned railroad line at Erie, Pa., and that about 2000 ties will have to be replaced.

"The rails are in good shape," the senators reported, "except in the vicinity of stations where they seem to show wear."

Last month Gibbs and Bowker filed a resolve for a Department of Public Utilities investigation of "run-down conditions" revealed in an MTA survey of the route.

pendent public bodies, each tries as it goes about its own separate aspect of Greater Boston's business. The State Department of Public Works tries as it builds new expressways. In fact, literally hundreds of efforts toward improvement are being made.

"Those of us who have attended the Boston College Seminars, so ably planned and conducted over the past three years, have been impressed, I am sure, by the revelations of able and experienced men, familiar with the problems of the area, as to the changes which are occurring around us. The seminars have been truly stimulating. Boston College is performing a real public service for which we are all truly grateful.

"Not only have the changes, actual and in process, been cited by the conferees at the seminars but the needs ahead and the shortcomings and the many obstacles in the path of progress have been stressed. The desire to help, to be of assistance, to have a part in the resurgence of the area has been kindled to the point where many have been endeavoring to do something to promote the action which everyone is urging.

"One of the reasons why it has been so difficult to get action is the great number and varieties of independent plans promoted by individuals, groups or organizations primarily interested in their particular projects, which are only phases of the whole broad problem.

"In most instances governmental agencies, individuals and groups are endeavoring to discharge their legal responsibilities fully and faithfully, or to attain the objectives and purposes of their organizations. But there is no coordination of these independent efforts even when they have a commonness of purpose of public good. Often there is a lack of presentation of full, factual information, although such information is available if one knows where to find it. There is no central source of information on most matters.

"Let me quote from the preliminary report of the regional planning and industrial development committee of the Greater Boston Area Council, dated February 13, 1953, which presents the situation quite clearly:

"Are things improving as they change? Are we moving toward better living conditions, more attractive environment, for more people, toward more prosperous business and industry, toward less waste of time and money, more efficiency, more convenience? Each individual citizen and company tries, of course. Each of the forty to sixty separate cities and towns tries, through its own city planning, zoning and subdivision control. The Metropolitan District Commission, the Metropolitan Transit Authority, and a number of other independent public bodies, each tries as it goes about its own separate aspect of Greater Boston's business. The State Department of Public Works tries as it builds new expressways. In fact, literally hundreds of efforts toward improvement are being made.

"This does not mean that the members of the general court do not also represent the people of communities which comprise their districts, or that we wish to circumvent or short circuit their able representation at the state level. Rather, I would say that our function should be to confer and consult with legislative groups on an organization or group basis relative to our respective viewpoints on problems which are common to the people and the communities of the metropolitan area.

"It is my suggestion, gentlemen, that we take positive and affirmative action to play an aggressive and significant role in framing proposals for the common good of our communities and for reviewing and discussing such proposals as may be made by others. We should retain our independence of action as we individually see fit but unite whenever we feel we can for the advancement of the general good of the area. We should request that we be fully consulted and informed on all matters in which we have an interest. We should ask to be included in exploratory proposals or discussions. Whenever and wherever possible, we should coordinate our efforts.

"On the other hand, there are occasions (examples of which are current) where information is not available and where there are indications that it is withheld, deliberately or otherwise. It is possible that in some instances there are valid reasons for such withholding.

"I should like at this point to emphasize again that this is not my meeting, but rather 'our' meeting to discuss possible ways and means of solving our common problems. It is up to us to determine what course of action, if any, we care to take now and in the future. The question may well be asked 'What can we mayors, city managers and selectmen do to promote common benefits and a general betterment for the whole area and at the same time discharge our responsibility of safeguarding our individual communities?' The further question might also be asked: 'If we organize, either formally or informally, will we not be merely setting in motion another group to add to the many now in existence, including governmental, quasi-public and private groups or agencies, and thereby present another obstacle in the path of accomplishments?' My personal answer to this would be that we are the closest to the people in the communities, and that as elected municipal officials, we are the group charged with the responsibility of transferring thoughts for constructive action on behalf of our communities. We are the ones

Judges Chosen for Miss Newton Contest on May 9

"MISS NEWTON" luncheon, held at Red Coach Grille, discusses contest plans. Seated: Carl De Suze, M. C.; Miss Priscilla Randolph, one of the judges. Standing: Thomas Fazio, general chairman, and two co-chairmen, Hendrick Kroschel and Mac Herron.

Leaders in the fields of business, education, and fine arts have accepted invitations to serve as judges for the selection of Miss Newton in the local Miss America preliminary contest, to be held May 9, at the Totem Pole Ballroom, Auburndale.

Priscilla Randolph, editor at Harbridge House, Inc.; Joan McGarry, assistant fashion editor of the Boston Herald; Anthony Nardone, director of the Guarantee Trust Bank in Waltham; Henry Lasker, music instructor at Newton High School; Norman C. Moore, secretary to the Attorney General, State House, Boston; Dana Seiler, Seiler's Inc., Boston; Philip Brown, President, Promotions, Inc., and Hart Modeling Agency, and alternates will round out the group of selectors. It was announced by Thomas Fazio, General Chairman of the Miss Newton Pageant.

The twelve contestants for the local title will meet with the judges at a tea on Sunday afternoon, May 5, in order to give the panel an opportunity to talk to each girl personally. The swim suit competition will be held at a private show.

The judges will then cast their ballots for the personality and swim suit competition, two of the qualities on which the entrants will be graded. The same ballots will be used later at the Totem Pole in the judging of talent, intellect, and appearance in evening gown.

Under the point system (five for each first place vote, four for second place, three for third place, two for fourth place, and one for fifth place) the girl with the highest point total at the conclusion of the Thursday evening pageant will be crowned Miss Newton of 1957-58, the event taking place shortly before midnight on the stage at the Totem Pole. Miss Newton 1956, Jean Bowers of West Newton, will place the crown on the head of the new local beauty queen.

Winner of the Miss Newton title will automatically become an entrant in the Miss Massachusetts Pageant, to be held in Boston in June. Winner of the state title, in addition to winning a $10,000 scholarship, will represent Massachusetts in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City in September. Miss America receives a $5,000 scholarship, and contracts for personal appearances and modeling engagements valued at some $75,000.

The awards for the Miss Newton Pageant are on display at the Toy Chest, Walnut Street, Newtonville. The Miss Congeniality trophy will be awarded to one of the twelve contestants, who will be selected by her fellow candidates.

PRESENTS HIS EXCLUSIVE
BODY WAVE $10.00

The Body Wave is a form of permanent waving used on hair that either has a little natural wave or hair that waves easily.

It does not add appearance to the hair, it will already have that, but gives such strength and resiliency to the wave as to make the hair seem naturally wavy and remarkably easy to brush up.

It is for hair to which the ordinary permanent wave (however soft) gives too much curl.

It is not generally advisable for straight hair.

Keane, one of the few remaining pioneers of the Boy Scout movement in America, will be the guest speaker at the Annual Meeting and Banquet of Norumbega Council Inc., Boy Scouts of America. The Normandy room, Norumbega Park, will be the site of the affair at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, May 7.

Exploring. In 1946 he was made the National Director of the newly-created Civic Relations Service. He initiated and developed the wide cooperation that is being increasingly extended to the Boy Scout movement by Veteran's, Fraternal and Service organizations and other similar groups. He retired in 1954.

Commander Keane was on active duty in the United States Navy in World War One. In 1941, prior to World War II, he was recalled to active duty and ordered to the office of the Secretary of the Navy. After the outbreak of hostilities he was assigned to the European Theater where he was given command of U.S. Naval Operations in Belfast. Following victory in Europe, he was transferred to the Southwest Pacific where he was put in command of the U.S. Naval Base in Melbourne, Australia. He has been decorated by the U.S. Navy for Outstanding Leadership and by King George VI as an Honorary Officer of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, one of Britain's most prized decorations.

Hotel-

Period of growth in the past ten years, and is today at the threshold of its most important phase of future development.

2. A careful investigation of the Hotel Corporation of America reveals the following facts:

a. They are highly respected in the hotel industry, and are leaders in their field.

b. While their operation is national in scope, the management and decisions are made by a group of highly respected local executives whose familiarity and regard for the Newtons is consistent with the Chamber's best aims and objectives.

c. There is every reason to believe that Charterhouse Inn under their management would meet the high standards of our citizens.

d. The distinguished management that is offered in such famous hotels as the Hotel Somerset, Boston; Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C.; The Roosevelt, New York City, confirms the fact that they can be welcomed with confidence.

3. A change in the zoning of this area will have the desired effect of bringing additional income to the city without burdening the existing school and other services.

4. Newton, with a population of 85,000 can support and deserve the convenience of a high class hotel. There is an unquestioned need for high grade hotel accommodations. As Newton matures and develops as a model suburban city, it must add to its existing facilities in order to continue as a self sufficient, well integrated community. Newton's business, industries, schools and residents all would be served through the completion of this project. Its caliber would add further prestige to the overall high caliber of our community.

The Newton Chamber of Commerce, has therefore, gone on record as unanimously endorsing this worthwhile project after careful investigation by its Executive Committee; and it hopes this endorsement will receive the support of the Board of Aldermen in arriving at a favorable decision.

Expect Tax Rate Rise This Year

Despite the Board of Aldermen's Monday night decision to use $600,000 of the city's surplus in setting the 1957 tax rate, the rate is still expected to increase over the present $48.20 figure.

A record budget of $16,345,700—a million dollars higher than last year's—will make a tax rise probable, although use of the surplus funds voted represents a $2.50 reduction on the tax rate.

Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., had recommended that $850,000 be used out of the city's surplus, but the board cut $250,000 from that figure. The city's surplus totals approximately a million and a quarter dollars.

The Board of Assessors is expected to submit its figures to the State Department of Corporations and Taxation within a few days, for the new rate.

$1 Too Much Says Taxpayers Ass'n

The decision of the Board of Aldermen to use only $600,000 of Newton's available surplus to hold down the '57 tax rate will force Newton taxpayers to pay about $1 more on their rate than is reasonably necessary, according to Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association. The Assessors and the Mayor

Civic Assn. Will Ask Incumbents' November Plans

Fair details of plans that promise to have an important effect on the Newton city elections next fall were made by the Board of Directors of the Newton Civic Association at a meeting held Sunday evening at the home of Wendell Freeman, 121 Homer street, Newton Centre.

President Ernest F. Dietz of Newton Centre welcomed the following newly elected officers and directors of the Association: first vice-president, Mrs. John C. McClintock, Ward 6; Directors, Mrs. John W. Curley, Ward 1; Lawrence C. Sullivan, Ward 2; Bertram H. Loewenberg, Melvin J. Dangel, Edward V. Hickey Jr., Ward 3; Mrs. John W. Newton, Paul A. Sales Tax Bill Now Appears To Have Chance of Passing

Governor Furcolo appears to be making some headway in his back-to-the-wall battle for the enactment of a limited 3 per cent sales tax. Where Furcolo's fight seemed to be virtually hopeless two or three weeks ago, even his opponents now privately concede that the critical vote in the House is likely to be extremely close.

Furcolo probably will not achieve the passage of the sales tax bill in its present form. But he might accomplish its enactment after some minor revisions in the measure, notably the exemption of heavy machinery used for production.

The Governor still is facing an uphill struggle, with the odds slightly against him. His influence and patronage, however, are beginning to show an impact upon the Legislature.

A number of law-makers who look coldly upon a sales tax and instinctively shrink away from one, have yielded to Governor Furcolo's persuasion and pressure and will stand with him on the issue when the chips are down.

Others are wavering, trying to assess the political consequences involved, whatever way they vote, and to determine what effort a stand for or against the sales tax would have upon their own prospects for gaining re-election.

Whitmore Blasts At Maneuvers'

Marcia Wittenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wittenberg, of 99 Russell avenue, West Newton, is one of four young students from the United States chosen to represent this country in Japan in a Study-Visit program sponsored by the Junior Red Cross. Purpose of the six-week visit is to train students in the national, international and community services of the Junior Red Cross. A similar program is also being conducted in Germany, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and France, with a total of 45 young Americans participating.

A student at Newton High School, Marsha and her three colleagues, will fly to San Francisco for three days of orientation before leaving for Japan via Hawaii, where she will be a guest of the Hawaiian Junior Red Cross for one week. In Japan, the young Newton resident will attend the American Junior Red Cross training center at Gifu Air Base and will spend about a week traveling throughout the country to study Junior Red Cross programs.

A member of the National Honor Society at Newton High, Marsha has worked on the Fun Book for the patients at the Peabody Home for Crippled Children and served as building chairman for the recent Red Cross Drive.

Jackson Descendants Invited To Open House At Homestead May 12

Spring suggests fragrant blossoms and pretty clothes and both may be found this Sunday, May 12, from 3 to 5 o'clock, when a special welcome will await all descendants of Edward Jackson, Newton's fourth settler, who built a Salt Box house in 1670 on the property now occupied by the Jackson Homestead at 527 Washington street, Newton.

History records that 13 brides were married in the parlour of this hospitable old house during the last century. Hannah Woodward Jackson became the wife of Henry W. Fuller in 1840 and today her white wedding dress of imported China silk, with a delicate floral design, is on view in this room. The basque waist, puffed sleeves, full hoop skirt, off the shoulder neck, white ballet slippers, silk mitts, dainty fan, white fringed shawl from India, and the lovely aethyst colored pin in a gold setting, all make the figure seem to come alive. Miss Florence C. Bacon, a direct descendant, has generously given these to the Homestead's costume collection.

Another figure in the parlour is wearing a dress from the trousseau of Little Smallwood Keith, who was married here in 1892. She was a granddaughter of William Jackson whose family of 14 children lived here for many years. This dress, a watted moire bengaline with standup lace collar and sleeves, is lilac in color, trimmed with a deeper purple velvet, and has an 18-inch waist, a bustle, and an imposing train.

Newton Y Is "Stronger Than Ever At Eighty

"The Newton YMCA is stronger and more vital than ever in its 80th year," said H. Edgar Pray, chairman, as he opened the 80th Annual Meeting of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association Monday evening at the Association building.

One-hundred and fifty members and friends of the "Y" heard Wilmer C. Swartley, Vice-President of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company as he pointed out the necessity for well conceived programs especially adopted to the needs of the community." Swartley went on to state that the freedom of choice and the ability of the discriminating person to choose is essential in the building of a stronger America.

Special guests at the affair were four foreign youths presently studying in the United States. They were Mirza Baig from Pakistan, Mohammed Pudjotaruno from Java, Fuad Suleiman from Jordan, and Miss Patricia Paterson from England. Each of the students greeted the gathering in his own tongue and went on to explain briefly in English the importance of the YMCA World Services program which serves as an integrating force in more than 40 countries of the free world.

Orville H. Emmons, New England Area YMCA Executive Secretary, spoke briefly on the responsibilities of YMCA's and the people who run them and pointed out that Newton was one of 1,818 YMCAs in the country and that these Y's were serving over 3 million members.

President George R. Strandberg of the Newton Y presided over the business session and noted that the newly rebuilt facilities in the Youth Department have made it possible for the Y to serve a greater number of members. He called on Hugh Harwood, chairman of the proposed "motel" will be constructed for lease by the Hotel Corporation of America. Acting Claims and Rules Chairmen Harry H. Ham opposed the request because he believed the building would not be of permanent enough construction.

A study of the entire motel subject before granting a permit was recommended by President Wendell R. Bauckman, Alderman Charles H. Cosgrove opposed the zone change on the grounds that the city is a residential one and does not need a hotel.

John Black had requested the rezoning for 100,000 square feet of land. Speaking in favor of the permit were Aldermen William R. Mattson, Hirsch Sharf, Earl D. Wood, William P. Ripley and Adelaide B. Ball.

Approve Zone Change For Hotel

Upsetting the adverse report of the Claims and Rules Committee, Newton's aldermen voted Monday night to approve a change of zone which will permit construction of a $400,000 highway hotel on the Worcester turnpike at Hammond Pond parkway, Chestnut Hill. The board voted 17-3 for approval, although the committee had opposed the change by a vote of 4-2.

The proposed "motel" will be constructed for lease by the Hotel Corporation of America. Acting Claims and Rules Chairman Harry H. Ham opposed the request because he believed the building would not be of permanent enough construction.

"Rest, While You're Sitting"

After getting "edicated" all day, I like to come here after school to relax in one of Dad's chairs—he does the most "comfortable repolstery" work. The arm on this chair was broken off—now it's stronger than new and the seat, gosh!—all the springs were hanging out of it; now the seat is soft as a cloud and the back is so nice to rest against. Notice how the fabric is custom tailored.

I hope Dad goes to Buffalo for coffee. I think that's near Wellesley. I'm on my way home to change my clothes for play, but I just can't move from this "heavy comfort."

If you do not get that "rest while you're sitting" feeling call my Dad, James Martin, the phone number is LA 7-8305. He has "Fine Payments" I think that means "Free Air" I think.

Oh, my name is Christopher James Martin. See you next month.

Correct Construction Helps Prevent Fires

By NEWTON FIRE PREVENTION BUREAU

Importance of Proper Building Construction

Fire Chiefs in every community can point out buildings which would be classed as fire traps and which he regards as having defects both as to construction and occupancy which would tax the fire department to the utmost with serious danger to life, and which, under unfavorable conditions, might result in a spreading fire involving other buildings.

For many years the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other organizations maintained by the capital stock fire insurance companies have studied these conditions and attempted in various ways to have unsatisfactory conditions remedied and thus aid in reducing the enormous destruction of life and property which has taken place over the past years.

The increased cost of construction and the attendant increase in taxation emphasize the importance of reducing these fire losses. The loss in taxable values alone may have a serious impact, and failure of a burned-out industry to rebuild may seriously affect a community in a number of ways.

Fire experience has clearly indicated that a large percentage of the serious losses of life and property are due to faults in building construction. The installation of dividing walls to separate areas, the enclosure of stairways and other vertical openings from floor to floor, the fire stopping of walls, and other features necessary to restrict the spread of fire, safeguard life and aid the firemen in extinguishing a fire have often been omitted either because of their cost or because of ignorance on the part of the builder or owner as to the need of such safeguard. Even some so-called fireproof buildings are seriously deficient in some of these important points.

Every city and town in the United States should be prepared for future building programs by having a modern up-to-date building code, with provisions for strict enforcement. Where there is need for the adoption of a new code, the first step usually is to appoint a building code committee, such a committee can well expedite its work by using the National Building Code or the National Building Code as recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The committee can make comparisons with the existing regulations in the city, and with codes of other cities, and see what changes, if any, are needed to make the code fit local conditions. To aid in the work the National Board of Fire Underwriters will provide any city or town with copies of the code to be used as the basis of study by any committee appointed to prepare a suitable code for the community.

In addition, the National Board has on its staff engineers who are available for consultation work, without cost to the community, both in reviewing the Nominating Committee to present the slate of directors for election. Harwood presented eight members of the board for re-election and two members of the Board of Trustees. Directors elected were Frederick S. Bacon, Rev. William G. Berndt, Frank A. Day, Philip Goddard, Fred T. Hackley, Roscoe A. Hayes, James G. Lord and Maynard L. Moody. The trustees elected were William F. Chase and Cyrus Y. Serris. In addition, two new Board members were elected—William E. Hopkins and James H. Rogers.

Other guests at the meeting were Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., H. Donald Norstrand, President of the Newton Community Chest and Robert Cahill, Executive Director of the Newton Community Chest.

pate in the actual laying of the corner stone. His grandfather, Joseph N. Bacon, took part in laying the corner stone of the 3rd Eliot Church edifice in 1888, and was one of the original founders of Eliot Church in 1845.

Rev. Nathaniel Guptill, minister of the First Church in Newton, Congregational, Newton Centre, will give the Invocation.

Eliot Church is a "daughter" of the First Church in Newton Centre, which was founded in 1664. Dr. Ray A. Eusden, present minister, will give the closing prayer and benediction.

The exercises will be moderated by Richard H. Lee and Ashley Day, Jr., Dr. Earl P. Stevenson and Dr. Ray E. Johns will make brief statements for the Building and Planning Committees. Harold A. Wooster, senior deacon, will place the copper box in the cornerstone.

In addition, the National Board has on its staff engineers who are available for consultation work, without cost to the community, both in reviewing any code prepared and in explaining the provisions in its National Building Code.

A correctly-constructed building means greater safety from fires starting and spreading besides peace of mind to all concerned. Newton is our city, let us all try and build it for a safe and prosperous future.

But the mayor raised the question whether it is possible for one state agency to seize another's property. Another question was whether the land would still be considered railroad property even after the MTA stepped in.

Mayor Whitmore, in addition to demanding the investigation, also repeated an oft-made request for information on the Turnpike Authority's plans. Although Newton has figured prominently in the toll road debate — with the road pointing directly at the city — just what the Authority plans to do now has been a closely-guarded secret.

"Does the Authority intend to develop the branch line into a toll road extension into Boston?" he questioned. "Are there to be two extensions of the toll road into Boston — one on the MTA explained that with five remaining vacancies on the Board to be filled with either enrolled Democrats or Independents, the Newton Civic Association will have established a truly non-partisan basis for endorsement of candidates.

Edward V. Hickey Jr. of West Newton reported for the Endorsement Criteria Committee, headed by Mrs. Richard G. Mintz of Newtonville. He outlined a plan whereby factors to be used as the basis for the candidate questionnaire and as a guide to endorsement voting will be selected by the Association's directors. This questionnaire will be sent to all candidates for city office prior to the Association's interview meeting.

In order to insure the availability of qualified candidates for every office next fall, the Newton Civic Association will soon send a written request to every incumbent office holder asking that they make their intentions publicly known before June 30. The Civic Association will seek out and encourage qualified replacements for incumbents not standing for re-election as well as making an effort to stimulate contests in general.

ure of the line by the turnpike-building group.

This move by Callahan, said the mayor, hints that the Authority intends to take over the Highland branch shortly after the MTA steps in. Such a "quick switch" is made necessary by state law, since the Turnpike Authority is given power to seize any land except that owned by railroads.

Mrs. Maurice B. Strauss, Communications Chairman of the Newton League of Women Voters, was hostess on Tuesday at a luncheon honoring Mrs. Seymour S. Getter, who is ending her third year as president of the 650-member group. ## Volunteers Spark Mental Health Campaign Drive

Volunteers from all over New England sparked the Mental Health Campaign for funds with a "Bell Ringers March" last Sunday, Stanley Lewenberg, chairman of the Newton Mental Health Campaign reported this week.

Collections will continue for the entire month of May, but only in those areas which have not yet been covered, he stated, and volunteers will be making returns each day of the month.

Funds raised by the Mental Health Campaign are used to promote mental health research, educational and training programs. Several hundred volunteers are participating in the drive in Newton this year, and Mr. Lewenberg had words of praise for the "many people in our community who have shown a willingness to help the mentally ill."

Political Overtones

For years the sales tax has been a political bugaboo in Massachusetts. Most public office-holders ran away from it, fearing that supporting it would be tantamount to committing political suicide. A few years ago, when a sales tax bill was before the House, one lone vote was recorded in favor of it. That vote was cast by Republican Representative Theodore J. Vaitse of Melrose. Ironically, Vaitse is opposing Furcolo's bill.

Furcolo's bold, all-out drive for a sales tax has at least partly dispelled the theory that any politico who came out for such a tax would be ringing down the curtain on his own career.

The Governor is an experienced and accomplished professional politician whose very public life itself depends upon his ability to hold a sensitive finger at the public pulse and to judge the sentiment of the people.

He has won two campaigns for Congress, one for State Treasurer and one for the Governorship. He went into two Democratic State conventions and both times came out with the nominations he was seeking, defeating Executive Councillor Patrick J. McDonough for the gubernatorial endorsement in 1956 and Congressman Philip J. Philbin for the senatorial nomination in 1954.

Furcolo wouldn't have written those victories into the record books if he had made any mistakes along the way, and he obviously didn't believe he was cutting his own political throat when he advocated a sales tax and threw just about everything except the State House dome into his fight to get one.

Either he's making a terrific political blunder, or the legislators who fear that a vote for the sales tax would cost them the seats they hold are wrong in their appraisal of the public thinking.

The opinion is gradually building up on Beacon Hill that Furculo may be right in his estimate that there would be no bad public reactions to a sales tax—if the tax does all the things the Governor and its other proponents say it will, including lowering real estate taxes, bringing new business to Massachusetts and generally making this a more prosperous State.

But a sizable number of legislators, particularly on the Democratic side, are still unconvinced and aren't ready to run the risk Furculo is taking. They can still see the bugaboo that might spell defeat and disaster.

From the implications that could be drawn from the remarks made by members of the legislative committee on taxation during the sales tax hearing it appears that the vote within the committee may be very close, whichever way it goes.

The crucial test, of course, will come on the floor of the House and, if the measure survives its journey through that legislative branch, it will face another bruising battle in the State Senate. But there is no question but that a favorable committee report would be an important psychological development. You may be sure Furculo will do everything within his power to get one.

A question which remains to be answered and which may determine whether the sales tax bill will be passed or defeated is what the Republican position will be on the Governor's proposal.

No top GOP leaders appeared in favor or against the measure during the hearings in the Gardner Auditorium.

However, Representative Arthur G. Heaney, Newton Republican and one of the committee members, asked some of the proponents what they would think of a bill calling for a 2 per cent sales tax, with all the money collected going back to the cities and towns.

Heaney didn't come right out and say what he thought of such an idea, but he created the impression by the phrasing of his inquiries that he would prefer it to the Governor's measure. That might or might not be the tip-off as to the Republican attitude.

Governor Furculo persuaded 10 Democratic legislators to appear in favor of the sales tax bill during the hearings. He has lined up two or three Democrats on the taxation committee. He has the promise of other Democrats that they will vote for the measure when it reaches the floor of the House. And he is working on still others. But he can't possibly win his fight without substantial Republican help.

To Remove Last Vestige Of Old Narrow Gauge Railroad

A few days ago, the State Department of Public Works opened bids for the task of removing the last tangible reminder of what was once one of the best-paying transit facilities in the United States.

The project calls for the complete demolition of the old 1035-foot stretch of timber trestle near Washington avenue in Winthrop. With its removal, the last vestige of what was once the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad will be erased.

Once the trestle carried well-loaded passenger cars over the marshes at that point. The trains ran frequently. They carried men and women to work in the morning and back home at night. They carried families on picnics and outings to the beaches in the summer. They defied the toughest winter days to keep up to a pretty exacting schedule.

The Narrow Gauge (no one called it by its legal name) never got much of a play on Wall or State streets. Nothing like the Pennsylvania or the New York Central or the Canadian Pacific. It was just a little railroad that sent its rolling stock over a ridiculously narrow gauge and tossed in a bit of salt water travel all for the price of a dime.

But in its hey-day—and its hey-day lasted a long time—it was about as sound a financial institution as could be found among transit companies anywhere. You weren't on its trains long enough to worry about such modern conveniences as air-conditioning. An open window

Music School Benefit Concert To Be Held at 'Pops' May 15

Again this spring for the second season, the All Newton Music School has taken half the floor at Symphony Hall on Wednesday evening, May 15, for a Music School Benefit Concert with Arthur Fiedler and his "Pops" Orchestra.

Guest soloist will be Robert L. Ripley, member of the cello section of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and faculty member of the Music School. Mr. Ripley will play Saint-Saens Concerto, Number 1 in A minor for violoncello and orchestra. Formerly of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Ripley has been with the Boston Symphony for three seasons and is well known as a cellist of fine distinction. His solo number will be an outstanding feature of the evening's concert.

There is a long list of sponsors for the concert some of whom are Miss Elizabeth Fyffe, Mr. and Mrs. Loomis Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Winslow H. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Sylvester McGinn, Mr. and Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, Miss Gretchen Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sibley, Mr. Fred W. Argue, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark Custer, Dr. and Mrs. A. Eusden, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Lebert, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Swartz, Mrs. Garret Schenck Jr., Miss Mabel Louise Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Pride Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Percuccio, Mr. and Mrs. William and the good salt tang of the Atlantic took care of that. You weren't on the ferry which carried you across the harbor between Atlantic Avenue and East Boston long enough to get seasick. They had their compensations—those ferries. Often you'd pass the mightiest of transatlantic liners which made Boston a port of call. Often you could watch the bon voyages from their decks as a huge liner loaded at her East Boston docks.

Here was transportation at its very best—swift, clean, safe and dependable. And cheap, to boot. But then came the automobile. It started carrying people to work in the morning and home at night. It started carrying families to the beaches at Revere, Beachmont, Winthrop and Lynn. Sometimes the automobile got smashed. Sometimes, too, they pulled bodies from the wreckage. But the automobile got stronger and stronger. The Narrow Gauge got weaker and weaker. The taxpayers built nice roads for the automobiles. They began to think of the Narrow Gauge as a ridiculous way to get where you were going.

And pretty soon the Narrow Gauge died. Folks said it was a shame. But they never found a real substitute for it. The destruction of the last remnant of the Narrow Gauge will bring back nostalgic memories to many people—memories of a more leisurely day when a ride on the Narrow Gauge and a squat, slow-moving ferry was quite an outing.

Milk Board Ouster Hearing Setting Record For Dullness

Governor Furculo probably regrets that he ever became involved in the attempt to oust Matthew J. Collins and Mrs. Mary J. Schindler from the State Milk Control Commission.

Furculo indicated before the removal hearings were started that he thought a three- or four-hour session was all that would be required. He certainly has been disillusioned.

He now finds himself enmeshed in what promises to be a long, drawn-out battle over two comparatively minor jobs. It's entirely possible that the terms of Collins and Mrs. Schindler will expire before this conflict is finally resolved.

Since the Governor has divided his ouster drive into two parts—first, to get rid of Collins and then, if he succeeds in that, to take up his case against Mrs. Schindler—the whole thing can be dragged on ad infinitum.

If Furculo finally decides to remove Collins, he must then place the matter before the Executive Council where another prolonged fight can be expected. On top of that, counsel for Collins and Mrs. Schindler have indicated that before the case is finally concluded, they may take it to the Supreme Court.

Furculo presumably now is devoting time to the conflict over two relatively unimportant jobs that he cannot afford to spend—time that he undoubtedly would prefer to be utilizing to line up legislators in support of his sales tax bill.

No small portion of the time consumed in the present hearings goes into the Governor's unsuccessful attempts to speed up the proceedings. As the hearings have dragged on, the Governor has found himself pressing sharply at some times and cajoling at others in order to get his ouster machinery into high gear.

At one point he called a recess and pleaded with his own counsel and the lawyers for Collins to get together and determine on what points they were in agreement, as a means of expediting the whole process. After 10 minutes the lawyers came back. They had been able to see eye-to-eye on only a few minor matters. That was all. The hearings droned on.

Originally billed as a swift, knock-down-drag-out battle which would keep spectators on the edge of the seats, the hearings actually have become the dullest heard in the State House in some time. Anyone in search of excitement could do better dropping into almost any hearing room where a legislative committee is considering a bill.

The squad of justices the Governor originally planned to have on hand to sit in on the ouster proceedings and give it a non-official okay have been fortunate. Aside from the time they would have to take away from their judicial duties, they'd have been bored to the point of exhaustion.

How different from the wholesale oustings ordered and obtained early in the term of former Governor James M. Curley! Those were really something from the standpoint of verbal and legal pyrotechnics.

There wasn't an inch of standing room available. They had wild displays of temper, brilliant bursts of oratory. They had their moments of pathos and humor, of shrewd, dazzling bits of political shenanigans and real, waterfront-tavern brawling.

There was more and swifter action packed into a couple of hours than can be expected to emerge from the present deadly-dull hearings. It would be fairly safe to guess that Governor Furculo not only is weary of the entire controversy but that he never would have started if he could have foreseen what was to happen.

Collection Of Rare Firearms On View at Watertown Federal

In keeping with its policy of presenting each month an unusual collection of items of historical and human interest, the Watertown Federal Savings and Loan Association has this month come up with a collection of early firearms that will keep the noses of males of all ages glued to their window.

The collection begins with a crude hand cannon which in principle is the most primitive type of small firearm. All of gin and were invented by the robber bands of the Pyrenees Mountains.

Another unusual item to be seen is a pistol with a 15-inch barrel. In spite of its size it could be held in one hand when fired as it is beautifully balanced.

Early muskets, rifles, flintlock pistols of the Civil War, boarding pistols with bayonets, holsters, powder and shot flasks, and even examples of early gun flints, are just a few more of the many items included in this display. William P. Sawyer, president of the Watertown Federal Savings advises that the display will be on view only until June 1.

A blunderbuss pistol carried by a stagecoach guard during the early 1800's is also on view as well as an early example of a Miquelet-lock pistol. The latter is one of the earliest types of flintlocks. The specimen on view dates from around 1700. Miquelets were Spanish in origin.

BODY WAVE $10.00

The Body Wave is a form of permanent waving used on hair that either has a little natural wave or hair that is straight. It does not add appreciably to the amount of wave already in the hair, but gives such strength and resilience to the hair as to make the hair seem naturally wavy and remarkable easy to put up.

It is for hair to which the ordinary permanent wave (however soft) gives too much curl.

It is not generally advisable for straight hair.

while we provide more conveniences and luxuries for ourselves. Most families have a car, and, according to the Kiplinger Magazine, 96 per cent have refrigerators, 86 per cent have washing machines, one out of 12 air-conditioner, and one out of 8 a clothes dryer. Electric irons, toasters, coffee pots and electric fans, radio, if not TV, (which one judge, in permitting money to be spent for it, decided was a necessity) have become common in the average family.

All these have to be paid for. So do the new and more extensive public services, or else they have to be given up. Citizens do, however, have the right and duty to demand that they be honestly, efficiently and impartially administered.

Since taxes take so generous a proportion of income, it is of prime importance that they should be levied fairly, so that people in the same financial condition pay the same amount, those better off pay according to their ability, and those worse off should pay according to their financial position.

This country was founded for the purpose of securing the blessings of liberty, and of establishing justice. Sometimes we seem to forget about the justice, except in so far as it is the concern of the courts. However, justice is the business of every branch of government, and of every citizen, since this is a government of the people and for the people.

The Supreme Court has said,

"The power of taxation is the one great power which underlies the whole fabric of government. Therefore, that this critical power should be used justly is fundamental to the integrity of our government."

Local taxes are closest to the people, who have become more and more conscious that there is wide injustice in local assessments. They get tired of seeing a house on one side of a street taxed far more than one like it across the road; tired, too, of hearing that single houses, double houses, and business property are taxed at different percentages of their fair value (this has the same effect as if different tax rates were used for each); angry at learning that some property is not even on the tax rolls.

Demands for new overall local assessments have been in the air in Massachusetts for some time. Such a local reassessment is undertaken by vote of the community. It is concerned with the relationships of property within the community. It is for the purpose of securing equal treatment, not equal taxes, for all taxpayers by assessing all on the same basis, and on the same percentage of value.

For such an undertaking it is essential that men be selected in whom the community will have confidence — men not only of proved competence, but men without local biases, and without fear of repercussions — for there will always be repercussions. No large change can be made without hurting someone, even though it may be someone enjoying an unfair advantage, perhaps for a long time. Even when this has been shown, too many will struggle to keep it.

Although some owners will be paying less under a re-assessment, others will be paying more, because pressures will have always been exerted in favor of keeping assessments down on various properties. Besides, the community may decide to raise the percentage of fair cash value used. Perhaps they think it best to come into gradual conformity to the law, which specifies fair cash value, perhaps they believe such a raising of valuations will bring the community a larger share of state-distributed tax funds; perhaps they are only planning to get more revenue.

If the same amount of revenue is to be raised, the higher valuations across the board need not increase the tax burden at all. High valuations at a low tax rate give the same result as low valuations at a high tax rate. For instance, a town assessing its property at 25 percent of its actual value, as many do, might have an $80 tax rate. If it began to assess at 100 percent of its value, its rate could drop to $20.

In a recent issue of Taxtalk, published by the Federation of Taxpayers, there was a table showing what the tax rates of the 351 communities of the state would have been in 1956 if fair cash value had been used for all property valuation. It showed that the present average rate of the 112 towns with population between 3000 and 9999 was actually $59.40, but that under "fair cash valuation," the average would have been $24.02. Remember this would have brought in the same amount of local revenue to the towns, but would have presented quite a different picture. Other tax rates would have varied as much.

At the First Annual School for Assessors last summer, the Associate Commissioner of Taxation, Mr. Wilson, reminded the assessors that "fair cash value," "assessed value," and "equalized value" are identical in concept according to low. He continued, "they mean the same thing because the law tells you that you must value property at its fair cash value, that becomes your assessed value, and if you value all property at its fair cash value, you have achieved a genuine equalization."

Frank Grant is treasurer of the fair and George Harvey is cashier. Miss Hazel H. Huke, president, Mrs. Ernest Seyfarth, Mrs. Samuel Werner, Mrs. Burton S. Skinner, Mrs. Thomas Lepore, Mrs. Edmund Anthony and Mrs. Loomis Kinney are on the committee serving the luncheon and refreshments throughout the day.

Special invited guests include Mayor Howard Whitmore Jr., Representative Irene Thresher, Rev. John Ogden Fisher, Mosignor Bernard J. O'Kane, Dr. Ross Caanon, Mrs. Lazarus Yudin, and Mrs. W. Duncan Russell, President of the Board of Directors of the Community Centre.

Participants in the discussion will include Mrs. Ivan Geiger, representing Tigerman parents; C. Evan Johnson of the recreation department; Helen Breivogel and Warren L. Huston, physical education supervisors of the school department; Helen Vazanian, assistant principal of Day Junior High School, and Sally Foote and Peter Derow, N.H.S. students.

Anyone interested in the problem of teen-age recreation in the city is invited to attend.

President Cites Jaycees for Youth Programs

The United States Jaycees

have received special recognition and praise from President Eisenhower for launching a nation-wide youth fitness program. Designed as an incentive program for their 3200 community organizations, Jaycee chapters this year will conduct from two to four youth recreation projects from a list of a dozen established Jaycee activities.

Participating chapters will receive Youth Fitness Awards. Edward V. Garfield Jr., president of the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce, has pledged the support of the Newton Jaycees to this program by announcing that the local chapter will conduct a Junior Golf and a Junior Tennis program this year, in addition to the already-scheduled Miss Newton Scholarship Pageant and the annual Teen-Age Road-e-o Safe Driving contest.

In adopting the program, the Jaycees became the first United States group to actively support the President's bi-partisan youth fitness committee which was formed following studies showing that American youth are below physical standard in comparison with youth of other nations.

Included in the Jaycee program are golf, tennis, bowling, fishing, basketball, swimming, and winter sports—all for both boys and girls. In addition to the founding of Boy's Clubs and Handicapped Scout troops, the Jaycees will re-emphasize construction of parks and recreational facilities in order that this program may be furthered in those communities where facilities are lacking.

ON PAY RAISES

Editor Newton Graphic:
Your head line in the last edition of the "Graphic" should have been, "Immoderate Pay Hike Voted" to all Newton employees. This at least would have been considered greater than moderate, and a step forward in the right direction.

The pay raises, or salary increases, as granted to the rank and file of city employees was, beyond any question of doubt—the least, and the minimum that could have been given—quite insufficient to cope with the present high cost of living and unjust to the workers in the lower paid classifications, i.e., raising some employees beyond the maximum as established, comparable with other classifications—plus other added benefits.

The pay raises were unfair, unjust, and unwarranted as given. No consideration was given to the work value and job performance of other employees. Their increments or increases remained the same as originally established. Raising the minimum or maximum salary of some without raising it for others; is to me, quite unfair.

The just and fairest way to solve this problem and to please each and every employee, was to give a general increase of the same amount. This could and would be based on the cost of living, and not on the increment standard, as set with the original salary increases which is now negated—due to dollar depreciation and inflation.

A cost of living bonus should now be included in the supplementary budget. The raise as given was in fact the same rule of thumb as used and applied in the job reclassification schedule to most employees. It didn't take into account or consider the rising costs in the living scale since first applied.

Only 9 months of the increment will be received or only 75 percent of the full amount.

Three months will be lost to every salaried employee, so classified. Therefore, any employee whose raise was based on the original job reclassification schedule, for all employees—with a minimum and maximum established and set for each and every employee—the raise will only total that as given above. So once again, the full increment will not be received this year—regardless of how high the cost of living goes.

Each and every employee has to meet the present high cost of living out of his or her take-home pay. Every employee pays the same price for the necessities of life. Many times a small raise will work to his disadvantage and put him in a higher income bracket, with a much larger tax to pay—out of proportion to his salary increase.

Each and every employee would like to see his standard of living increase, and to be able to give up his part-time job, and devote full time to the city. He could also keep his wife from working, and be able to buy a steak once in a while and not subsist on hamburg alone. Every employee likes to eat good and nourishing food. This makes them strong and healthy and better workers for the city. Each employee would like to save something for that inevitable rainy day, something they cannot do with their present wages, unless increased substantially.

Each and every employee should have sick benefits and insurance—as planned and adopted by the State employees and many other municipalities.

Each and every employee would like to see longevity recognized—with better method than none at present—recognizing vacation periods, with due regards to sick leave, as being separate. This to come after a certain number of years of employment—on a graduated scale or length of service.

Finally, each and every employee would like to get a fair and even break all-around. They have a God-given right to expect a fair and a just wage. A right to complain, which is theirs as natural and human—when wages are concerned. With a better standard of living and better wages, will come better labor-management relations. This can all be accomplished through happy and satisfied city employees, who will then become an asset and not a liability to our city. This could then mean a better city in which to work and live; with hope and better prospects for the future—for all employees.

These, together with faith and trust in God for continued health and happiness—these then, are my sincere wishes for all of the city employees of Newton.

TO BE TREASURED

Editor, Newton Graphic

On April 25, the Hyde School Community was presented with a real treat by the Hyde School PTA at the Countryside School when the 5th grades of the Hyde School performed an abridged version of H.M.S. Pinafore, produced, directed and coached by Miss Mabel K. Chase, 5th grade teacher.

This was more than the ambitious achievement of a zealous teacher or the entertaining performance by a handful of talented children. It was a remarkable capturing of the true spirit, flavor, vigor and wit of Gilbert and Sullivan by more than 90 5th graders under the inspired direction of a wonderful teacher. Those down front were delighted from the start with her "Sing! Sing! Sing!" to the chorus and were thrilled during the finale when she stood throwing kisses with both hands to the children. But even those standing in the rear were moved by the earnest love and devotion of a teacher for her pupils and their applause and respect and love for her.

Altogether it was an evening to be treasured by parents and teachers for a long time, and a permanently enriching and wonderful experience for those lucky youngsters and their "sisters and their cousins and their aunts."

One grateful parent.

FEARS FATALITIES

Editor, Newton Graphic

Heavily-travelled Washington St. which runs through the heart of Newton is treacherous to cross at many points. The two deaths that occurred recently as people were trying to cross this street are testimony to its danger. Are the speed laws uniform on this thoroughfare? Should the speed limit be lower in view of the heavy traffic? Or should a person be forced to take his life in his hands as he attempts to negotiate a crossing? We must all cooperate—pedestrians, motorists and police—to see that Newton's fatality total does not soar. We will not be able to

CITY PRIDE NO BROTHERHOOD IN ELLIS CASE

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Can this be "Brotherhood"? Is it not amazing that here in Boston three awards were given for brotherhood when at the same time the Norfolk Probate Court is attempting to ruin the lives of three people, merely because two of them happen to be Jews?

Does this make sense? What mercy have our authorities shown Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis and their little five-year-old foster daughter, Hildy McCoy?

As evidence of the injustice of this case, the Mass. Council of Churches has come to the defense of these unfortunate people...as has also the Christian Science Monitor.

It is a sad commentary upon Massachusetts justice that we must turn to Florida for this commodity.

Obstacles Face High School Nine

With our winter sport memories wrapped in mothballs with mixed emotions until next season, we focus our attention on the national pastime of baseball.

Academic requirements, illness, and graduation, are definitely going to be an obstacle to Coach Ferguson's aspirations for a championship squad.

He cannot hope to replace everybody's All-Scholastic hurler, Russ Halloran, who has carried the bulk of the pitcher's chores for the last three seasons; also missing from the Tiger mound core will be Howie Whitmore, the tall, lanky right-hander who worked so effectively for the Orange and Black.

Up in the big leagues they say a championship team must be strong up the middle, and the Tigers are a big "if" in this department. Second baseman Kenny Keyes graduated after a stellar season around the key-hole sack for the Tigers and he will be sorely missed. His partner around second base, shortstop Bobby DelGizzi, has left school and obviously the Tigers will miss his great glove-work and clutch hitting.

Sickness pushed an unwilling hand in the Tiger's fate when ace backstop Johnny Beggs was struck with infectious mononucleosis which may keep him out for the rest of the season; Beggs was a three-year man and made his presence felt with the bat as well as being a good handler of pitchers.

Dixie Bergman and Jimmy Centrello, both regulars on last year's team, will be missing thereby leaving gaps in the outfield to be filled.

There is however a bright side to this year's squad as there is a good nucleus of returning veterans in key positions, which should give Fergie something to build around. Al "Fuzz" Martin will probably be the number one man on the mound for the Orange and Black; Al is sneaky fast with

Academic Honors

Jonathan Kozol of 35 Kenilworth St., an English major at Harvard University, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the highest scholastic distinction given to a college junior.

On the Dean's List at Union College in Schenectady is John D. Bergman of 30 Pulsifer St., Newtonville. The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hugo Bergman, he is a freshman majoring in mechanical engineering.

Lower Falls PTA Names 2 Teachers

Two educators have been nominated for key posts in the Hamilton School PTA for the coming year, included in the slate of officers presented at the annual meeting and potluck supper on May 7 were Dr. Ernest H. Blaustein, associate professor of microbiology at Boston University, for president and

Mr. Robert Boylan, head of the science department at Roxbury Memorial, for vice-president.

Other nominations included that of Irving Goodman, treasurer; Miss Rose Pilblosian, secretary, and Mrs. Joel Leighton, nominating chairman. Mrs. W. Fraser Malcolm, present chairman of the nominating committee, presented a complete slate at the annual supper.

In charge of arrangements for the 6:30 p.m. supper were Mrs. Robert Manners and Mrs. Harry Friedman. President Robert Clinton presided at the affair, which took place at St. Mary's Parish Hall, Lower Falls.

Kindergarten registration for the Hyde School will take place in the kindergarten room on

In our opinion they have the greatest coach anywhere in Howie Ferguson and if a club can win you can be sure he'll get it going. Fergy is a tremendous handler of young players and his record speaks for itself.

We are counting on Water town to be the real surprise of the Suburban League, but Waltham and Arlington will give Newton a good fight, as the Orange and Black attempt to defend their Suburban League championship.

We have purposely held back on any prediction on this year's squad until we could see them in action. To date they are undefeated in four games, with one contest ending in a tie and called because of darkness. The batting punch of a championship caliber team may be lacking at times from the Orange and Black line-up, but it is defensively strong and a real hustling and hungry ball club.

Start Early If Making New Lawn This Spring

To have a smooth lawn, fill up all low places before sowing seed.

When a new lawn is made in the spring an early start is advisable so that the new grass may become established before the ordeal of hot weather. As soon as the frost is out of the ground, and the soil is dry enough to work the lawn area may be prepared. Never work wet soil.

Grass will grow in poor soil, and its roots are soil builders; but a porous soil enriched with organic matter, 4 to 6 inches deep, will bring faster and more lasting results. Additions to the soil should be spread evenly and mixed thoroughly with the existing soil, not applied as a thin top layer.

Grass will not thrive in acid soil, so a check should be made at this point. The soil should test at least pH7, which is the neutral point. Crushed limestone is best to correct acidity, and also improves the texture of heavy clay soil, causing too-fine particles to collect in crumbs which permit both air and water to pass between them.

After the soil has been turned over, large lumps should be broken up and the surface leveled, because it will be difficult to fill low spots after the grass has started. A rake is the best tool for leveling and removing stones and debris.

A pulverized surface is not as good as a pebbly condition, as small soil lumps will break down and help cover the seed. Pulverized soil after watering may be baked by the sun into a hard crust.

When the surface has been leveled, seed and plant food may be spread. To spread the seed evenly at the desired rate it is best to use a plant food spreader. The practice is growing of mixing seed and plant food together, as this provides enough bulk in the hopper to insure an even flow.

For example, if it is desired to spread 30 pounds of plant food over 1,000 square feet, this amount may be placed upon a sheet of heavy paper. The amount of grass seed intended for the same area may be poured on the plant food and the two mixed thoroughly. The paper can be lifted and the mixture poured into the spreader.

Adjust the spreader to apply the plant food at the desired rate, and this will be satisfactory for the distribution of the seed in the mixture as well.

Speeding on U.S. streets and highways injure 702,560 men, women and children.

Sprinkle of Seed Brings A Rainbow of Flowers

All the colors of the rainbow, with fragrance beside, can be grown in a combined border and cutting garden from a dozen packets of flower seed.

Sown in a sunny area of the home grounds, this planting will serve the double purpose of making a garden display, and providing a wealth of cut flowers for the house all summer long.

These flowers bloom so freely that you may cut dozens of blossoms daily without noticeable effect upon the garden display. Indeed, liberal cutting will only make the flowers bloom more abundantly. Never let a blossom go to seed, if you want to keep them coming.

All the colors of the rainbow are included in this array; and there will be fragrances besides, due in large part to No. 1, nicotiana affinis, the sweet tobacco. Its white trumpet flowers are delightfully perfumed, and are especially enjoyable at twilight.

No. 2, caliopsis, is the annual form of coreopsis, and has the same daisy-like flowers; but a far greater variety of color. Colors include various tones of yellow, orange, maroon and crimson, with many two-tone combinations. No. 3, annual larkspur, is the annual delphinium, rich in true pinks, dark blues, and white. No. 4, cleome, is the spider-plant, growing four feet tall, bearing pink flowers. Scabiosa, No. 5, is one of the loveliest of cut flowers in spite of its unpleasant Latin name, though its popular title of "mourning bride" is not much better. It bears on long stems ball-shaped flowers of the finest texture, and richest coloring, ranging from white through many tones of pink, red, lavender and blue. Centaurea, No. 6, is remarkable for its true blue, true pink, and deep red double flowers. The type of Marigold which should be planted in No. 7 space is the dwarf two-toned Harmony strain. No. 8, calendula, is Shakespeare's "marygold," so changed for the better it would marvel at it, and still one of the finest of flowers.

For space No. 9, illiput zinnias are recommended; they make bushy plants covered with small double flowers, which are fine for low bowl arrangements. In No. 10, plant snapdragons, of the garden type, which will bloom through most of the summer.

In the foreground of the garden, blue ageratum, in the spaces numbered 11 and 12 white petunias in the center space, No. 12, will make a striking contrast, and bloom abundantly all summer.

It is for hair to which the ordinary permanent wave (however soft) gives too much curl. The Body Wave (however soft) gives it is not generally advisable for straight hair.

Two High School Seniors Win Honorary Scholarships

Judith Brown and Harris Funkenstein, seniors at Newton High School, and members of the school chapter of the National Honor Society, have been awarded Honorary Scholarships in the National Honor Society competition held by the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, Washington, D.C. These Honorary Scholarships were awarded to students who had distinguished records but had sufficient financial resources or won substantial scholarships to assure their attendance in college.

In the same competition Nancy O'Roak, Newton High Senior, has won a $50 cash award.

Judith Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown, 33 Woodland road, Auburndale. She plans to enter college in September and major in psychology. She has also won a number of other awards in competition.

At Newton High School, Judith has served as secretary, class of 1957, sophomore and junior years; president, pep-club rally committee; chairman, dance committee; and has also been an active member of a number of other school organizations.

Harris Funkenstein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Funkenstein, 88 Stanley road, Waban. He will major in English at college. He has also won a National Merit Scholarship and a number of awards in competition.

At Newton High School he served as a member of the to Needham for property which has not been giving it any return for years.

Accordingly, at 3 p.m. on Monday, June 10, the Brookline Board of Selectmen will meet in its office at Brookline Town Hall and consider bids for both the properties in Dedham and Needham.

Executive Secretary Arthur A. O'Shea of the Brookline Board has announced that sealed bids will be received up until the deadline on June 10. The bids must be on appropriate forms obtainable from the Brookline Selectmen's office and must be accompanied by a certified check for $1000.

The Brookline-owned tract is accessible from Vine Rock or Needham streets in Dedham. The area on the Needham side of the line is generally known as the Powell's Island section of the Newton Water Lands.

Despite the fact that neither Brookline nor Newton longer want to hold the properties they have been under constant speculation in both Dedham and Needham in recent years. Not only have the two towns been carrying on formal or informal studies of their possibilities for future development but the Metropolitan District Commission has shown considerable interest.

Indeed, the MDC has advanced some tentative plans which would take advantage of some of the properties for recreation purposes.

Elliott Henderson, prominent real estate man has offered Newton top bid of $436,000 for its holdings on conditions that he can work out an agreement with the town of Needham. Needham under his proposal would be handed over some of the property acquired by Henderson in exchange for concessions in zoning matters.

Some of the Newton holdings in Needham would be adaptable to industrial development and some to recreation. Some of it could very well be reclaimed for residential purposes.

The Newton Water Lands Committee appointed by the 1956 Needham Town Meeting to study the possibilities did not appear to think too highly of the potential of the Brookline-owned land in Needham's future plans but saw great promise in the parcels still owned by Newton.

The committee was continued active and its study will go on in conjunction with the studies of the Needham Long Range Water Lands.

Since their abandonment by Brookline nor Newton longer want to hold the properties they have been under constant speculation in both Dedham and Needham in recent years. Not only have the two towns been carrying on formal or informal studies of their possibilities for future development but the Metropolitan District Commission has shown considerable interest.

Indeed, the MDC has advanced some tentative plans which would take advantage of some of the properties for recreation purposes.

However, at least in the case of Needham, they will look large in the future. Needham planners claim they see in the Water Lands the "more elbow room" which the town will soon need, municipal plants such as an incinerator, expansion of the industrial area and the use of some of the property for both recreational and residential facilities.

As far as Brookline and Newton were concerned, however, the Water Lands have only meant a tax bill from Needham and Dedham Town Halls every year, with nothing to show for the investments.

Aims And Accomplishments Of Girl Scouts Is Subject

Five distinguished leaders in their fields will examine the aims and accomplishments of Girl Scouting in a panel discussion highlighting the Spring Council Meeting of the Newton Girl Scout Council at the Beethoven Elementary School Thursday evening, May 23.

The all-male panel, representing the fields of business, education, labor, religion and government, will speak on the subject: "Men Look at Girl Scouting." They will outline what they, as civic leaders, expect Girl Scouting to accomplish for the community, and what their individual occupations can offer to Girl Scouting.

"This meeting is directed to promoting fuller understanding and cooperation between Girl Scouting and our community," it was announced by Mrs. Thomas Lepore, chairman of the Council Meetings Committee. "We are hopeful that every Newton Brownie and Girl Scout father, as well as the mothers, will participate in what promises to be a rewarding evening."

Members of the panel are: Arthur T. Gregorian, prominent business and civic leader, who will moderate; Clarence E. Churchill, principal of the Hyde Elementary School; James McLaughlin, vice-president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, and liaison officer of the United Fund; Rev. Benjamin R. Andrews, Jr., minister of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, and William Hardy Prentice, Newton alderman.

"There are many areas in which fathers can assist Girl Scouting while scouting is helping to build better girls," Mrs. Lepore stated. "The community needs Scouting, with its emphasis on good citizenship, and the Scout movement needs the abilities of more 'Do Dads.'"

In addition to the panel discussion and question period, the meeting will feature election of delegates to the National Convention in November.

A bright name was added recently to the local roster of UNICEF.

Grade Schoolers To Bring Old Clothing To School

Children of Newton will be getting new homework next week, according to School Superintendent Harold B. Gores, who has announced that the elementary schools will be collecting used clothing for ragged little boys and girls as Newton's contribution to Save The Children Federation Bundle Drive.

The superintendent explained, "Save the Children Federation is an international agency helping youngsters both in this country and overseas. These Bundle Drives have been held for the past 14 years in schools throughout the United States."

Children's clothing is especially wanted, but infant and adult wear are also welcomed. The superintendent urged donations of long-sleeved sweaters, shirts, pants, dungarees, overalls, hats, knit caps, cotton dresses, underwear, socks, pajamas, cloth coats, sheets, blankets, diapers, baby shirts, booties, rubbers, overshoes, and work shoes. Donations must be clean, wearable, and mended if necessary. In its 25th year of operation, Save the Children Federation is a non-profit, non-sectarian agency helping youngsters without regard to race or creed.

There is no question whatever but that the desire of some prominent Democratic legislators to slash the State budget stems from their objection to a sales tax and their determination to vote against the Governor's bill.

If the budget is not cut by about $35,000,000, then some new source of revenue must be found to provide the money needed to finance the operation of the State government, whether it be a sales tax or some other tax.

Some of the top Democratic leaders in the Massachusetts Legislature have been privately planning to lower the budget to the point where no additional taxes would be needed, reject the sales tax bill and then prorogue for the year without any political blood-letting and without placing any new taxes on the statute books.

But then Speaker Michael F. Skerry and Representative John J. Toomey, chairman of the House ways and means committee, found that Furcolo is unwilling to accept the budget recommendations which Toomey's committee had in mind.

The Governor not only was unyielding but served notice that if the committee persists in recommending the cuts, he would fight them on the floor of the House.

Ordinarily, a Governor could count on almost solid support for the State budget from legislators in his own party. Because of the sales tax issue, which overshadows just about everything else on Beacon Hill, Furcolo cannot depend on the united backing of his party.

His influence and the power of his office should enable him to line up a majority of the Democratic House members. There will be a fairly sizeable number he will not be able to win over to his side, however. That group in all probability will be large enough so that with the Republicans they would control a majority of the votes.

In the event the Governor did win a test of strength in the House on the budget, he would then face still another struggle in the Senate, where influential Democratic Leader John E. Powers presumably would spearhead the fight for budget cuts because of his opposition to the sales tax.

Powers is in a position where he can't back down any more than Furcolo can. He has a high political objective of his own. His eyes are fixed on Boston's 1959 mayoralty election. He has burned his bridges behind him in the sales tax war. He cannot turn back, and he is virtually committed to a budget cut.

The South Boston Senator is an old pro in politics. He knows better than anyone else that his own prestige as well as Furcolo's is at stake in the sales tax fight and that one of them is going to lose.

It would be ridiculous to think that the Republicans, as they survey this situation and their own position in it, are not weighing carefully all the political ramifications and considering their own possible maneuvers in terms of the 1958 State election.

This reporter would not attempt to forecast the outcome of the budget battle. But it seems unlikely that the Republicans would not seize upon any opportunity to slash Furcolo's budget, however, they may stand on the sales tax.

In fact, the GOP chieftains may decide to pare the budget to the bone and then present a sales tax bill of their own which would give all the funds to the cities and towns and none to the State. Don't be surprised if that happens.

Furcolo Slow To Name Men To Key Post In His Regime

One of the most surprising aspects of Governor Furcolo's administration to date has been his failure to move swiftly to place men and women of his own choosing in important State positions as the terms of holdovers have expired and vacancies have occurred.

A Governor usually loses no time in doing that, invariably feeling that his policies would not be effectively carried out by officials who owe their appointments to a preceding administration, especially if that administration was of the opposite political party.

That has not been true of Furcolo. As this is written, a dozen top jobs and scores of lesser posts either are being filled by holdovers from the Herter regime, waiting for their successors to be named, or aren't being filled at all.

This is causing considerable grumbling both by Democratic leaders and by the Governor's job-hungry followers.

The situation was pointed up when Attorney General George Fingold blasted Governor Furcolo for not naming a successor to Richard Preston as head of the State Department of Commerce more promptly and accused Furcolo of being responsible for a "complete breakdown" in that department.

While the $12,000-a-year position of Commissioner of Commerce has been the target for most of the Republican fire because of the unusual circumstances involved, it is just one of the cases about which the Democrats are complaining.

Furcolo probably regrets now that he acted as hastily as he did in calling for Commissioner Richard Preston's resignation last January. He certainly discovered that it was a lot easier to get Preston out than to find a qualified person to take his place.

The mistake Furcolo obviously made was in not having Preston's successor picked out before demanding that the Commerce head resign.

When Preston speedily complied with the Governor's ultimatum and sent in his resignation, it evidently took Furcolo by surprise. At least it found him unprepared to accept it and fill the job.

For almost four months Preston has continued as a sort of unwilling State department head, periodically reminding the Governor that he was anxious to leave the

Minister of N. H. Church Resigns

Rev. Frederic Grootsema, D. D., who has served as minister of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church for over eleven years, read his resignation to the congregation last Sunday and will leave during the summer for new pastoral duties in Whittier, Calif.

Dr. Grootsema, seventh minister in the 85-year history of the church, will become minister of the Plymouth Congregational Church in Whittier, a city of about 35,000, on Sept. 1, 1957.

One special duty he will perform prior to his departure will be the marriage of his daughter, Alison, on June 23. Dr. and Mrs. Grootsema have two other daughters, Judith, 17, Newton High School student, and Gail, 12.

A native of Michigan, Dr. Grootsema was a college teacher before he entered the Chicago Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1936. During the war years he served as minister of the First Congregational Church of Sierra Madre, Calif., and came to Newton in 1946.

During his ministry here, the Newton Highland church buildings have been improved with the completion of Founders Hall, a new office suite, and the installation of a new lighting system in the church sanctuary.

Local Builders Win Top Award

A multi-level contemporary home created by two Newton builders and a Cambridge architect won first award in its category at the Centennial Convention of the American Institute of Architects held this week in Washington.

Builders Harmon White of 50 Valley Springs Rd. and Edward Green of 52 Edward Rd., West Newton, were presented the coveted first prize by the A.I.A. president. They teamed with Walter S. Pierce of a Cambridge architectural firm in developing the house, photographs of which will be appearing shortly in national magazines.

New Golf Film To Be Shown

Featuring the annual meeting of the Brotherhood of Temple Shalom in West Newton tonight will be a new golf film in color. The film itself offers no guarantee to bring all its viewers under the next time out nor does it offer the perfect cure for that slice. It can help in both directions, however, and the scenery alone is pretty satisfying for devotees of the little white ball.

State service and return to private business. Not until this week did Furcolo designate his successor.

Attorney General Fingold charges that as a result of this situation the normal activity in the Commerce Department has broken down at the very time it should have been working full blast to promote vacation and tourist business for Massachusetts for the coming summer.

"The Governor's indecision—his inability to select a department head without organizing a committee and asking it to tell him whom he should appoint—has cost Massachusetts many thousands of dollars in vacation business," declares Fingold.

"It was nothing but sheer blundering and bungling to demand a man's resignation for no apparent reason and then spend four months fumbling around looking for someone to appoint in his place," alleges the Attorney General.

It would seem that Fingold, a potential candidate against Furcolo in next year's State election, is taking advantage of the Preston situation to even scores for the attempt made during the winter to oust him from his offices on the third floor of the State House.

Long List Of Holdovers

Here are some of the other holdovers from the Herter administration whose terms have expired:

L. Roy Hawes of North Sudbury, commissioner of Agriculture, $12,500 a year.

Harold A. Delaney of Lawrence, member of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, $6500 a year.

James E. O'Brien of Jamaica Plain, Civil Service Commissioner, $6500 a year. (There is widespread speculation as to whether O'Brien will be reappointed. He is one of the leading political supporters of Senator Powers. It would widen the breach between Furcolo and Powers if he were replaced.)

Patrick A. Tompkins of West Roxbury, commissioner of Public Welfare, $12,500 a year. (Tompkins' term expired while ex-Governor Herter was in office. He has held the job for more than 10 years, was originally appointed by the late Maurice J. Tobin.)

Frank W. Rourke of Melrose, chairman of the board of trustees of the MTA, $7500. (That is the job it has been reported might go to ex-Governor James M. Curley.)

Daniel Tyler, Jr., of Brookline retired from the position as associate member of the State Housing Board after he was demoted from the chairmanship of the board. That position is now vacant. It pays $2000 a year.

A vacancy also exists in the $8800-a-year job as deputy commissioner in the commerce department. (Former Governor's Councillor George A. Wells of Worcester reportedly is slated for that post. The appointment would be made by the new commissioner after he assumes his duties but presumably would be dictated by the Governor.)

Another important position the Governor can fill is the $12,500-a-year job as chairman of the newly created Commission on the Audit of State Needs.

On the basis of his record to date, Governor Furcolo appears to be the kind of chief executive who moves slowly and cautiously on some matters and boldly and swiftly on others. It seems that the selection of his cabinet members is one of the decisions he doesn't hurry.

PTA Council Hears Of Need For Swimming Pool

What recreation is provided for teenagers in Newton? What do the teenagers themselves want? What recreation do their parents, teachers and the city feel should be provided?

These and many other aspects of the subject were discussed on Monday evening by a representative panel of eight before the annual meeting of the PTA Council, held at the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls.

By the end of the evening it was clear that the high school students themselves feel that the continuation and expansion of Tigerama is of great importance. This informal social gathering provides varied activities of wide scope and draws between 700 and 1000 students. Facilities fall under the jurisdiction of churches and temples, the recreation department and special youth agencies, but there is a lack of week-end activities. Junior high school students present to answer questions were Peter Hamilton, president of the Interschool Council, and Sue Glickman, both from Weeks; Barbara Myers, Day; Doris Axelrod and Richard Perlmutter, Bigelow.

Melvin J. Dangel, past president of the council, acted as panel moderator.

Further business of the annual meeting included the election of officers. Edward C. Uehlein was re-elected for a second term as president. The three vice-presidents are Walter H. Dietz, Jr., Irving J. Helman and Mrs. Henry Sherman. Mrs. Edward Landy and Mrs. Robert Hull will serve as recording and executive secretaries, respectively, and Mrs. Vincent Hemmersten will act as treasurer.

A detailed report of the council's work during the year was read by Mrs. Sherman, retiring executive secretary. She listed all committees and highlighted their achievements.

Retiring vice-president, Mrs. Denzell Ostroff, was saluted for her three years' work as an officer of the council and presented with an orchid.

Harold V. Vlass, president of the Emerson School PTA, welcomed the members of the schools, Miss Helen Vaznaian, council.

Over 400 Boys In Summer Activity

With Camp Day filled for the year and enrollments coming in daily for Chickami and Massasoit, four Newton YMCA camping programs will be offered boys from Newton and surrounding communities this summer.

More than 400 boys will be enrolled in the four projects and nearly 200 different boys 8 to 15 years of age are expected to be involved over the two months.

Opening for its 42nd season on June 26 will be Camp Franklin, the residence camp, in East Brookfield. Capacity enrollment of 168 boys for the two four-week periods has already been reached. Frank M. Simmons is the Camp director. Fred A. Hawkins is chairman of the Camp Day committee.

The two day camps, Massasoit and Chickami, will open their new season on Monday, June 24, and Camp Vagabond activities will be held during two weeks during the summer.

Camp Chickami, located in Wayland, will operate for its 12th consecutive season and its third on the 11.5 acre out-of-town site. Enrollees are separated into small groups, each with a competent leader-counselor in charge. Boys engage in baseball, crafts, softball, swimming, archery, volleyball, nature study and other activities.

Members of the Camp Chickami committee are William E. Hopkins, chairman, Carl S. Anderson, Sidney A. Marston and Francis M. Staszeky and Richard G. Ware. Russell E. Ball, youth work secretary of the Newton Y will direct the camp.

Camp Massasoit, first opened in 1944, will open for its 14th season under the directorship of Richard B. Simmons, Newton YMCA membership secretary.

Activities are conducted at the Newton YMCA on 276 Church street and make use of the athletic fields, tennis courts, gymnasium and swimming pool. Special features are trampolines, overnight campouts, and several bus trips away from camp to visit places of interest. Camp committee members are Leon A. Huston, chairman, T. Frank Copp, Kent-Tsutsumi, Henry Stenberg, Cornelius Roggeveen, Ralph L. Angier, Robert H. Cobb and George E. Higgins.

Camp Vagabond, an adventure trip camp, is the fourth YMCA camping program. Trips planned for this year include a journey through Connecticut to the Catskill Mountains and a second trip through Vermont to Montreal and return. Elton E. Bertsch, YMCA associate youth work secretary, will direct the two trips. Philip A. Lashway is chairman of the Camp Vagabond committee.

The Newton YMCA sponsor of all four camping programs, is a charter member of the Newton Community Chest and a Newton Community Council.

Full Bookshelves Goal of PTA At Meadowbrook JHS

A new slate of officers will be elected at the Meadowbrook

Junior High PTA Annual Meeting, Monday, May 20, at 8:00 p.m. The program for the evening, "Operation Bookshelf", will stress the importance of assisting the school department in stocking the school library. The PTA feels that this modern structure is fortunate in having one of the finest library layouts in the city, and that the students should not be compelled to wait for the books to accumulate but rather that the parents should contribute wherever possible.

Miss Elvajean Hall, Coordinator of Library Services, Newton Public Schools and author, lecturer and traveler, will discuss the functions of a school library. She will also comment on a new film to be shown entitled "The Carpet Beneath The Classroom".

Parents of sixth grade pupils who automatically become members of the Meadowbrook PTA will be welcomed at this meeting.

lection reveals a strongly-marked romantic inclination for gently satirical and playful contrasts.

One of America's foremost clothes designer, Miss Fogarty has been featured in Life and Living magazines and has received many fashion distinctions, including the Mademoiselle Award and the American Fashion Critics' Award for 1951. She has won outstanding acclaim for her ability to bring high fashion into junior sizes; simplicity and femininity—emphasized by the bouffant skirt, tiny waistline and full petticoats—have become styles synonymous with her name.

Miss Fogarty, who will be interviewed Friday on Ed Murray's "Person to Person" show, will receive the 1957 annual cotton Fashion Award for distinguished service in advancing and maintaining the prestige of cotton in the creative fashion field on May 20.

OVER THE GARDEN FENCE

by

DON ROSS

Where did the warm spring drain the supply of available weather go? For those who have food from the soil before the other growth has a chance to take in an ample amount. Foliage feeding gives the small early. Memorial Day is often used as the grand opening of the gardening season. The frost danger should have past by this date. With some frost signs about, the plants set out now will probably not be much further advanced than those planted in a week or so.

Summer flowering bulbs can be put in from now on, although it is a little early for dahlias. Gladiolus should be dusted with a DDT powder before being planted to insure against any insect trouble. Five percent DDT dust placed in a paper bag with the Glad corns and shaken around is probably the easiest method of treating them. They should be planted to a depth of 3 or 4 inches.

This is the time of year to battle the cutworms. There are poison baits, such as Sharol and Buggetta, which will combat this garden pest. Paper collars are also available for young plant protection.

Although this is not the best time of year to move shrubbery it can be done. The main thing to do is keep the root system moist. In the case of evergreens where new growth has started the plant will most likely be set back for the season. Yet if the tree or shrub is watered faithfully no loss should occur.

Soluble plant foods are becoming more and more popular due to newspaper advertisements. I am still a firm believer in the use of organic fertilizers over any others but I will say the solubles have their good results if used right. Foliage feeds are good if followed up by others at periodic intervals approximately 2 to 3 weeks apart. Personally I like the solubles used in conjunction with an organic type plant food, especially where shade is a problem.

Shade is a problem because the small plants are in competition with tree roots which

Patrolman Discovers Fire at Bank

As hundred of firefighters in widely separated sections of the State were battling big forest and brush fires last week, Patrolman James Lyons detected smoke issuing from the Newtonville branch of the Newton-Waltham Bank & Trust Co., 303 Walnut street.

The officer was making a routine door check. His attention to duty, however, paid off. What could have been a serious fire in the extensive shopping centre was quickly checked by apparatus responding to his alarm.

The fire was confined to the basement stockroom in which it has originated. Smoke damage, however, was severe and damage was estimated at approximately $7500.

Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., has not determined the cause.

Sprinkle of Seed Brings A Rainbow of Flowers

All the colors of the rainbow, is remarkable for its true blue, true pink, and deep red double flowers. The type of Marigold which should be planted in No. 7 space is the dwarf two-toned Harmony strain. No. 8, calendula, is Shakespeare's "marigold", so changed for the better he would marvel at it, and still one of the finest of flowers.

Sown in a sunny area of the home grounds, this planting will serve the double purpose of making a garden display, and providing a wealth of cut flowers for the house all summer long.

These flowers bloom so freely that you may cut dozens of blossoms daily without noticeable effect upon the garden display. Indeed, liberal cutting will only make the flowers bloom more abundantly. Never let a blossom go to seed, if you want to keep them coming.

All the colors of the rainbow are included in this array; and there will be fragrances besides, due in large part of No. 1, nicotiana affinis, the sweet tobacco. Its white trumpet flowers are delightfully perfumed, and are especially enjoyable at twilight.

No. 2, callospis, is the annual form of coreopsis, and has the same daisy-like flowers; but a far greater variety of color. Colors include various tones of yellow, orange, maroon and crimson with many two-toned combinations. No. 3, annual larkspur, is the annual delphinium, rich in true pinks, dark blues, and white. No. 4, Cleome, is the spider-plant growing four feet tall, bearink pink flowers.

Scabiosa, No. 5 is one of the loveliest of cut flowers in spite of its unpleasant Latin name, though its popular title of "mourning bride" is not much better. It bears on long stems ball-shaped flowers of the finest texture and richest coloring, ranging from white through many tones of pink, red, lavender and blue. Centaurea, No. 6,

A former Newton resident, Robert R. Walker who now lives in South Duxbury, has been elected a director of the new United Fund of Greater Boston, it has been announced.

While a resident of Newton, Mr. Walker served in various capacities in fund campaigns and is a former director of the Newton Community Chest and past vice-president of Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

A graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, Mr. Walker attended Amherst College and is a graduate of Columbia University. He is a U.S. Navy veteran and a member of the Duxbury Yacht Club.

The African Mission Fathers Annual Field Day will be held this year on Sunday afternoon, May 26, at the Queen of Apostles Seminary, Common street, route 135, Dedham, near route 128.

A very large committee is adding the finishing touches to a program of entertainment and fun that should, indeed, make this the finest of the many similar outdoor occasions that have been held on the truly beautiful Seminary grounds.

For the enjoyment of the huge crowds expected the best names available in singing, dancing, and music are lined up, including a seventy piece CYO Band.

Free Tennis Clinic To Be Held Here

A free Tennis Clinic for boys and girls from 8 to 16 will be held at the Newton Squash & Tennis Club, Newton Centre, Saturday morning from 9 to 11 o'clock.

Four ranking New England players will be charge of the group, Malcolm Hill, Bill Powers, Harrison Rowbotham and Joe Corish. Those attending should bring rackets if possible. Tennis sneakers must be worn.

All the proceeds will help the African Mission Fathers to discharge the heavy debt on their newly dedicated Queen of Apostles Seminary.

The teaching session will be followed by an exhibition match by the four instructors.

The clinic is sponsored by the New England Tennis Patrons Committee. All young people between 8 and 16, whether beginners or advanced players, are cordially welcome.

Kills Bill to Increase Wages In Legal Action

On a voice vote, the Senate killed a bill to increase the amount of wages and pensions which would be exempt from attachment in a legal action, after Senator Donald L. Gibbs of Newton pointed out the exemption had been raised to $40 only a year ago by the Legislature. Senator Gibbs declared there had been no new demand for the proposed increase from organized labor.

NEWTON—The Underwood P.T.A. will hold a reception for Miss Emily Childs at the Hunnewell House at 84 Eldredge St. on June 4 from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Miss Childs, third grade teacher, will retire at the end of this school year. ## Picture Exhibition in Memory of Miss Wilkins Being Held

In memory of Katherine Wilkins of Newton Centre an exhibition of her pictures is being held at the Newton Centre Women's Club Gallery, 1280 Centre street, and will end this Saturday, May 18. The exhibition is being held from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Albert R. Speare, Weston; Miss Priscilla Ordway, Newton Centre; Mrs. Daniel Brown, West Newton; Mrs. Albert H. Hegnauer; Mrs. Edward Stone, Mrs. Carl Trapp, Mrs. Martin Connally, Mrs. Bernard Goldberg, all of Newton Centre; and Mrs. M. N. Smith-Peterson of Wellesley Hills with Warde Wilkins, her brother with whom she made her home, and Mrs. David A. Reed of Walpole, N.H., her sister, will be on duty in the gallery.

Miss Wilkins' works have been hung in the Margaret Brown Gallery and at the "Independent" showings in galleries and at the Museum and the exhibitions at Symphony Hall by "Friends of the Symphony Orchestra."

Among pictures to be shown at this exhibition is her painting "St. Francis on Boston Common," which attracted much comment in last years Boston Arts Festival, loaned by Mrs. Richard Wallace of Brookline.

Miss Wilkins studied at the Vesper George School of Art and with Prescott Jones, Karl Zerve, Sam Thal and Carl Nelson.

Although water-color was her favorite medium, she worked with oils, lithograph crayon and pencil.

Proceeds from any pictures sold will be added to the fund for her Memorial in the new Trinity Church Parish House, Newton Centre.

Miss Wilkins taught at the Brimmer and May School at Chestnut Hill for the five years previous to last September, the time of her death.

of multiple dwelling. Here in Newton we have numerous homes that at one time were single or two-family dwellings, but, due to the housing shortage have been converted without permission into small apartment houses.

"Many of these now house three or more families. The work in many of them has been done without a permit or inspection by the proper authority.

"In many of them the correct means of egress for the number of families living there is not sufficient under these circumstances. Some have only one stairway from the upper floors, if this is cut off due to a fire they are usually trapped until the Fire Department arrives.

"Attics that are finished off usually have very narrow stairways and small windows. It is hard to escape through them. These are but a few of the items that are overlooked by the owners in order that they can make some fast money.

"Unless there is a fire or some other type of disaster many of these overcrowded conditions are not discovered.

"The occupants for the most part do not want to complain lest they be requested to move.

"Even with all the new homes that are being built here in Newton the changing of old homes that are being built here in Newton the changing of old homes into multiple dwellings continues under cover.

"The fire loss record as far as lives are concerned here is remarkable and I only wish that it could continue. But some day our luck will stop short and in just an 'under-cover' conversion home apartment house job we will read of some horrible fire deaths which might have been avoided.

"It is not too late to stop and re-consider the possibilities of what could happen in a fire in these 'converted apartment homes' and do the necessary work that might help prevent a fire from spreading or provide adequate means of escape from the upper floors.

"An automatic fire warning device that would arouse tenants would be of some value. Excuses and lame ideas do not save lives. It is only correct and honest action that prevents trouble.

In many instances, it was learned, the conversion work was carried out by men with only a superficial knowledge of such trades as carpentry, plumbing and electric wiring.

Chief Perkins indicates that the scope of the alleged violations is so widespread that neither his department nor the other departments concerned have the manpower or facilities to cope with the investigation work which would be necessary to bring large numbers of violators into line.

The tenor of Chief Perkins' statement is based on a plea that the violators themselves recognize the perils to life which they have created and initiate steps themselves to correct them.

Here is the chief's statement: "The recent fire in an adjoining city in which a number of lives were lost should certainly be taken with grave concern by every apartment house owner and those living in any type of this enterprise for the coming season.

Chester E. Borden of Second Church (Congregational Church in West Newton), Finance Chairman of the Council, will comment upon the heartening financial support of those who are aware of the Council's accomplishments and plans, together with a report of a study his committee has been making with the co-operation of the ministers of member churches since the last annual meeting.

Election of officers to lead the Newton Council of Churches in the united efforts for the forthcoming year will be held.

The meeting is open to delegates of all member churches, their pastors, those who have special responsibility for membership and evangelism in each church, or others interested in the ecumenical activities of the organization. Reservations for this annual dinner meeting may be made through Rev. Sidney Adams, executive secretary, at LA 7-1245.

Rates-

under 25) the hike is from $55.50 to $64.50 or about 16 2/3 per cent.

The hikes are effective at once and payment on the extra charges announced by State Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Humphrey is due "forthwith." Motorists will be getting their bills presently from their insurance brokers.

Newton was lucky in one way. The rate increase on the class I rates is about the median for most of the cities and towns in the State. However, 30 other cities and towns, including Boston, found they had been moved into a new rate classification in the revision made by Humphreys at the court order. Some will be obliged to pay hikes up to 25 per cent.

A few towns were given a lower classification in the review of their automobile accident rates. The lowest increase anywhere was 16.1 per cent.

Here's how Newton fares in comparison with some of her neighbors:

Class I: — Wellesley, $26 to $31; Needham, $26, to $31; Waltham, $36 to $41.50; Brookline, $48.50 to $75.50; Weston, $26 to $31; Boston $17.50 to $86.

Class II: — Wellesley, $40.50 to $48; Needham, $40.50 to $48; Brookline, $75.50 to $102; Weston, $40.50 to $48; Boston, $114 to $133.50.

"To these people who have already changed their homes to multiple dwellings and small apartments which lack the common safety regulations that are set up for buildings would be a hard thing to explain to a coroner's jury if lives are lost in a home, changed under cover, in a serious fire.

"Obey the home building laws and live. Disregard them and you yourself may be fire's next victim."

Orange and Black Trackteam Again Shows Superiority

Showing balance in practically every competition of the day, Newton trackmen dominated the seventh annual Greater Boston track meet at the White Stadium, posting 56½ points to 48 for Rindge which nosed out Malden by half-a-point.

The Newton runners and field event men captured the combined championship while it was walking away with top honors for the senior and sophomore-freshman divisions, leaving Rindge only the satisfaction of winning the junior division championship.

An idea of the class display by the Tigers can be gained by judging their showing among others. As usual, past records took a pummeling.

Members of the senior relay medley team were Parris, Leete, Fermano and Elmstrong. The in the meet. The boys broke 12 of them and three of the record smashers were the Orange and Black.

It was the second time Newton has walked off the field with three division championships. In 1954 it won the overall senior and junior trophies.

The Newton record breakers were John Head, who set a new senior division mark in the low hurdles when he went over the timbers with a neat 20.1 seconds timing; the senior medley relay team which accounted for 3:48.3 mark; the freshman-sophomore medley relay unit which posted a 3:56.8 reading.

Members of the senior relay medley team were Parris, Leete, Fermano and Elmstrong. The Fro-Soph team was made up of Kenney, Gilvar, Martin and Woodbridge.

Peter Nelson who won the 440-yard run in the senior division and Larry Smith who was timed in 10.5 secs for the 100-yard dash in the freshman-sophomore competition were among the local boys who turned in outstanding performances.

Although Newton appeared weakest in the junior division the 9½ points the boys earned during the afternoon were welcome when it came time to tote up the overall points. Those 9½ points made the difference since the difference between N.H.S. and Rindge in the final overall count was exactly nine points.

A Fine, Unspoken Sermon

If Newton residents knew a bit of quiet pride and satisfaction this week it was on the pardonable side.

After all, Newton, is primarily a city of homes. It makes no pretenses as a convention city. It offers no great convention halls. There are no hotels to accommodate a great, sudden influx of strangers.

Yet, beginning Monday and continuing through Wednesday conservative estimate placed the number of clergy and laity coming here for the 158th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at around 1500.

No one church could have provided the facilities for the many meetings which were on the Conference program. Several were pressed into use.

We believe that one of the finest lessons which the Conference offered in this day and age came even before the Conference itself was opened.

That was in a simple exchange of pre-Conference correspondence. It consisted of a gracious offer of the use of the Jewish Temple Emanuel for some of the meetings; and the gracious, unanimous acceptance of the offer by the Protestant group.

In such a fine example of modern-day thinking and co-operation there is a splendid example.

It's the sort of thing that can make this nation better and stronger. It's the sort of thing that can make this world a finer place in which to live.

Political Overtones

At the moment the possible candidates, other than Lodge, are considered to be Attorney General George Fitzgerald, Republican State Committee Chairman Charles Gibbons, Governor's Councillor Christian A. Herter, Jr., former Executive Councillor Bruce Crane and former Lieutenant Governor Sumner G. Whittier.

State Chairman Gibbons and John S. Ames, Jr., chairman of the Republican State Finance Committee, are handling arrangements for the June 5 dinner. They predict that the turnout will be more than twice as large as for the recent Democratic Jefferson-Jackson dinner.

What a difference six months makes! While Governor Furcolo is encountering one political booby trap after another at the State House, the man he defeated for the Governorship, former Lieutenant Governor Whittier, is gaining a reputation as an excellent administrator for his work in the insurance division of the Veterans Administration.

One Republican Wants Furcolo To Head Their State Ticket

One of our readers recently wrote in to suggest that next year the Democratic party in Massachusetts should nominate State Senator John E. Powers as its candidate for Governor and that the Republicans should put up a well-known public figure named Foster Furcolo.

The letter was intended as a tribute to Furcolo because the person who wrote it obviously was a Republican and felt that the GOP nomination was about the greatest favor that could be bestowed upon a candidate short of actual election.

"It seems to me," the gentleman wrote, "that Governor Furcolo is upholding the Republican principles when he advocates a sales tax so that income taxes may be held down and relief may be furnished to the property-owners. I think the Republicans should nominate him for Governor next year, and let the Democrats put up Senator Powers or whomever they wish."

There isn't much likelihood that the GOP high command will seize upon that proposal, but it points up the fact that Furcolo is at odds with just about every prominent Democratic leader except Boston's Mayor Hynes. Even ex-Governor Paul A. Dever, Furcolo's sponsor and political patron, has remained silent concerning the Governor's sales tax bill.

The clash between Furcolo and Democratic Senator Leader Powers has stopped just short of actual political warfare. It could reach those proportions if Furcolo gives the heave-ho to James E. O'Brien, chairman of the State Civil Service Commission and one of Powers' top political backers, as it has been reported he intends to do.

Powers has been adamant and unflinching in his opposition to Furcolo's sales tax measure. While the Governor has been discreet in his public utterances, he certainly cannot be classed among Powers' boosters.

Democratic State Committee Chairman John M. Lynch has let it be known that he feels the Democratic prospects for next year's State election are going down the drain unless Furcolo does something—and does it quickly—to plug up the political drain.

That caused a flickering of political eyebrows because ordinarily a State chairman either adopts the attitude that the Governor of his party can do no wrong—or else quits the chairmanship and gets out.

Lynch, however, is too blunt and outspoken to say anything he doesn't believe. Besides, he owes his election as chairman to U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy and State Senator Powers, not to Furcolo.

Speaker Michael F. Skerry of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in deference to Furcolo has abstained from any public statement concerning the sales tax. Privately, however, he's against the Governor's bill, and under the surface the relationship between Furcolo and Skerry is strained.

About the only prominent Democratic leader on Beacon Hill who is unwavering in his support of Furcolo is Democratic House floor leader John F. Thompson of Ludlow who has been the Governor's political ally and friend back through the years.

If Powers, Lynch, Skerry and the other Democrats, who disagree violently with Furcolo, were to join forces and back a candidate against him in next year's Democratic gubernatorial primary, they could give him quite a battle. That isn't likely to happen, of course, but the political record books reveal that in 1938 ex-Governor Charles F. Hurley was denied renomination for a second term.

Bad Month for the Governor

This month hasn't exactly been a successful one so far for Governor Furcolo even though upon occasions he has indicated that he could see silver linings in the political clouds when they were not visible to anyone else.

Furcolo backed gingerly out of his battle for the removal of two members of the State Milk Control Commission. As he made his retreat, he fired a volley at Governor's Councillors Christian A. Herter, Jr., and Charles J. Gabriel. For reasons which were somewhat obscure Furcolo accused Herter and Gabriel of improper statements and conduct during the ouster proceedings.

It was Herter whose steaming blast at Furcolo caused the Governor to abandon his plan to have a team of judges sit in on the hearing on the removal of Matthew J. Collins from the Milk Board. That may or may not be what Furcolo regarded as improper conduct on Herter's part. If it was, then a great many other persons who disagreed with Furcolo on the propriety of injecting judges into such a matter, were similarly guilty.

Furcolo's advisers so far haven't been able to interpret his withdrawal from the Milk Board controversy as a victory, but they did manage to construe a defeat at the House on the budget as a triumph for the Governor, although in truth it requires a more elastic imagination that this observer possesses to accept that version.

were on a 60-70-mile-an-hour expressway, but were on a busy commercial street.

Wood said the toll road has caused some increase in traffic in his area, but that it has been "nothing alarming so far."

Alderman Ham protested that the ordinance represented a blanket approval for all the signal lights recommended by the traffic experts. He advised against "rushing into this on the basis of the prediction of the experts." Ham urged that the Aldermen wait another two or three weeks before voting on the matter. "All of the lights may not be needed," he said.

Alderman Charles H. Cosgrove, arguing for the passage of the ordinance, asserted that it would merely give the Mayor authority to go ahead and look into the matter.

Alderman William E. Powers pointed out that the traffic experts who were paid $20,000 for their work felt that "some time in the future it will be necessary for us to have a synchronized pattern of traffic lights on Commonwealth avenue."

The ordinance to hike the mayorality pay was offered by Alderman Earle D. Wood of Auburndale.

procedure must be followed in order to raise a Mayor's pay.

The salary increase will become effective only if a majority of those voting on it indicate their assent to it in the privacy of their polling places.

Parade-

have answered the last bugle call since the battles of 59 years ago.

The parade will move away from Centre street and Langley road in Newton Centre promptly at 10 a.m. next Thursday.

The marching columns will swing over Langley road to the Memorial Flagstaff where a halt will be made for the brief services.

Then the columns will continue south on Walnut street to the Newton Cemetery, where services will be held at the G.A.R. Memorial and the Soldier's Lot.

After the ceremonies in the cemetery, the parade will proceed out the main gate onto Walnut street and thence to City Hall where they will pass in review.

On the steps of City Hall to return the salutes of the marchers will be the parade chief marshall, chief of staff, adjutant general and their staffs.

Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., will march near the head of the parade with Senator Saltonstall.

Saltonstall will deliver the Memorial Day oration the holiday morning during the rites at the Soldiers' Lot in the Newton Cemetery.

The sad notes of taps and the sharp bursts of rifle fire will echo across the green stretches of the cemetery during the exercises at both the Soldiers' Lot and the G.A.R. Monument.

As the sounds echo back, with them will come flooding memories of those who have answered life's last roll call, who sleep not only beneath the grass slopes of the Newton

Cemetery but under small crosses in far-away burial grounds, near distant battle-fields.

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman will give the invocation at the G.A.R. Monument after an introduction by Maxwell P. Gaddis. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address will be recited by J. W. Wilson, and wreaths will be placed on the Civil War memorial by the commanders of the various veteran organizations.

The ceremonies there will close with the rifle fire of the Newton veterans' honor guard, the playing of taps by John C. Malgieri and the National Anthem by the Bigelow Junior High School Band.

Parade Adjutant William E. Halliday, Jr., will open the services at the Soldiers' Lot.

Wreaths will be placed there for the Gold Star Mothers by Mrs. Alice Bjornson, president of the organization; for the City of Newton by Norman J. Mitchell and for the Newton Veterans' Council by Peter J. Best.

After the address by Saltonstall, the firing squad will fire its final salute, the bugle notes of taps will roll across the well-kept cemetery, and many a person in the gathering will brush back a tear that wells up with the memories of yesteryear. The national anthem will be played by the Newton High School band, and benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Ray A. Eusden.

The annual memorial services will be held at 9 a.m. next Sunday at St. Mary's Hall, Boston College. The Rev. Daniel F. X. O'Connell, chaplain of the Newton Post #48, will celebrate the memorial mass.

Lawns Not Hurt By The Drought

If you're fearful that the May-time drought, which led to the series of recent forest and brush fires all over the State, did irreparable damage to your lawns, garden or that apple or peach tree in the back yard — be of good heart.

State Commissioner of Agriculture L. Roy Hawes points out that gardens and grass require less water at the time of germination than than they do later in the season. And fruit trees with deep root systems, says Commissioner Hawes, "have not been hurt at all." If normal rainfall comes with the weeks and months ahead your garden, grass and fruit trees will do all right, he believes.

outside a home or business establishment to take any such calls from fire headquarters and summon his mates if they are needed to battle a conflagration.

Fire Chief Perkins appealed for public cooperation in the city-wide inspection, emphasizing that its objective is to eliminate loss of life and property from fires which could be prevented.

The chief explained that his men cannot enter single or two-family homes unless the occupants give their consent.

"We, therefore, are asking the full cooperation and permission of every householder to allow us to make this inspection for the sake of everyone's safety," Chief Perkins asserted.

No occupant of a single home or two-family house will be prosecuted because of any fire hazards which are found, Perkins stated. They will simply be advised to remedy the hazardous conditions for their own protection and the protection of their homes and the other members of their families.

He also announced that this increase would qualify the local chapter for an award from the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. A further award that the Newton Junior Chamber will receive will be the Operation Civic Service Award for participating in various civic and youth activities. This award will also be presented by the National organization.

Gartland gave credit to the officers and members for these awards by stating, "Our achievements, which earned these awards for the Newton chapter, are not the results of the efforts by any one officer or member, but the results of a sound program which the Newton Jaycees adopted, planned and put into being. The continuation of similar programs will not only continue to benefit the youngsters of Newton, but benefit ourselves as future civic leaders. These are the true Jaycee objectives in that we provide leadership training through civic improvement," Gartland concluded.

Following the elections, President-elect Horton pledged his support to the continuation of the Jaycee programs. He asked all Jaycees to continue their efforts in interesting other young men to join this "young men's organization", as well as to ask them for their proven interest and participation in all projects undertaken by the group.

Horton noted the accomplishments of the Jaycees during the past year and paid tribute to outgoing president Gartland for his leadership ability.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Edmund Gallagher presented outgoing President Gartland with a diamond Past Presidents pin and Nathan S. Clark made the presentation of the Past President's plaque, engraved upon same with the local chapter's appreciation for his leadership ability, interest, and wisdom during his term of office.

After the meeting had formally adjourned, the movie "The Jaycee Story" was shown to the members.

It is usually in such places that a large number of bad fires start because of the practice of storing waste material in them, Chief Perkins pointed out.

He said his men also will be particularly interested in the storage of all types of flammable fluids such as gasoline, fuel oil, turpentine, linseed oil and paints. Permits must be obtained for the storage of those

Ten Called To Jury Duty

Ten Newton residents were picked for jury duty in the criminal session of the Middlesex Superior Court in a drawing held at this week's meeting of the Board of Aldermen. They are:

Howard R. Kinner, 91 Evergreen ave., Auburndale; Louis B. Barber, 33 Orient ave., Newton Center; Christopher C. Crowell, 120A Atwood ave., Newton; Peter F. J. Sepe, 22 Whittier rd., Newtonville; Sterling G. Taylor, 211 Langley rd., Newton Center; William J. Jackson, 122 Albemarle rd., Newtonville; Otho M. Fish, 158 Harvard st., Newton; Joseph Stano, Jr., 77 North st., Newtonville; Gino P. Castoldi, 26 Thomas st., West Newton; and Margaret E. Thivierge, 19 Melrose ave., Newton.

Fluids. (Where it is found an occupant of a single or two-family home does not have the required permit, he will merely be told to get one. No penalty will be invoked for not having one.)

Fuse boxes will be checked for oversized fuses, pennies or pieces of metal which could cause a short circuit.

Fire companies will make the inspection in their home districts. They will not be on foot but will be riding their apparatus just as if they were going to a fire and, in fact, may speed off from your home to go to the scene of a blaze.

The inspection will be carried on methodically street by street until the entire city is covered. Chief Perkins plans to make such inspection each year as part of the city's fire prevention program.

"The purpose behind this type of inspection is two-fold," Chief Perkins asserted. "First, it is to secure the help of those in homes and business places to work with us and become more fire-conscious about cleaning out their attics and basements. Usually, these are the places having the largest amounts of old waste materials for fire to feed on. Most of these materials are worthless and should have been disposed of long ago. The older they become, the more susceptible they are to fire."

"Secondly, this type of inspection allows the fire-fighters to become better acquainted with the various types of buildings in their districts which will enable them, in an emergency, to act in a more efficient manner, thereby saving needless loss."

Chief Perkins observed that comparable inspections in other communities have resulted in a substantial reduction in the toll of property and lives claimed by conflagrations.

Both householders and proprietors of business places have more than a week in which to clean up any hazardous conditions they know exist before the fire fighters call to make their inspections.

This is particularly true in the case of occupants of commercial properties and the owners of dwelling structures housing three or more families. They could be prosecuted for any flagrantly hazardous condition uncovered.

The amnesty on prosecution applies only to the single and two-family houses.

fluids. (Where it is found an occupant of a single or two-family home does not have the required permit, he will merely be told to get one. No penalty will be invoked for not having one.)

Fuse boxes will be checked for oversized fuses, pennies or pieces of metal which could cause a short circuit.

Fire companies will make the inspection in their home districts. They will not be on foot but will be riding their apparatus just as if they were going to a fire and, in fact, may speed off from your home to go to the scene of a blaze.

The inspection will be carried on methodically street by street until the entire city is covered. Chief Perkins plans to make such inspection each year as part of the city's fire prevention program.

"The purpose behind this type of inspection is two-fold," Chief Perkins asserted. "First, it is to secure the help of those in homes and business places to work with us and become more fire-conscious about cleaning out their attics and basements. Usually, these are the places having the largest amounts of old waste materials for fire to feed on. Most of these materials are worthless and should have been disposed of long ago. The older they become, the more susceptible they are to fire."

"Secondly, this type of inspection allows the fire-fighters to become better acquainted with the various types of buildings in their districts which will enable them, in an emergency, to act in a more efficient manner, thereby saving needless loss."

This is particularly true in the case of occupants of commercial properties and the owners of dwelling structures housing three or more families. They could be prosecuted for any flagrantly hazardous condition uncovered.

The amnesty on prosecution applies only to the single and two-family houses.

It is usually in such places that a large number of bad fires start because of the practice of storing waste material in them, Chief Perkins pointed out.

He said his men also will be particularly interested in the storage of all types of flammable fluids such as gasoline, fuel oil, turpentine, linseed oil and paints. Permits must be obtained for the storage of those fluids. (Where it is found an occupant of a single or two-family home does not have the required permit, he will merely be told to get one. No penalty will be invoked for not having one.)

"Youngsters" of Yesteryear Plan Reunion

A red letter day in the history of the Hyde Grammar School in Newton Highlands will occur Friday, June 21 when at 5 o'clock a group of graduates, spouses and guests are to assemble there for a renewal of school friendships of many years ago.

It is expected that Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., '19, will be present as will schoolmates from Texas, Missouri, Washington, D. C., and other remote places.

Although changes in facial characteristics will be many, easy identification of boyhood and girlhood associates will be greatly aided by the wearing of name tags. At 7 o'clock, all will be summoned by the school bell to a dinner where anecdotes and reminiscences can be indulged in, both publicly and privately.

A complete and accurate list of all these class members is not available, hence any who have not been notified of this reunion are cordially invited to attend. Herbert E. Gleason '98, 103 George street, Medford, is secretary of the committee and he will gladly furnish anyone desiring them, complete details of the affair.

Foreign Tennis Players Bring About Good Will

"Housing for American and foreign amateur tennis players is a courtesy which is extended each August by the National Doubles Tennis Tournament," according to Mrs. Joseph A. Barry, 211 Highland avenue, Newtonville, Chairman of the Players Housing Committee.

"Getting to know these fine tennis personalities has been a pleasure for parents and an inspiration for teen-agers. As the first international tennis matches in the United States were played in West Newton, it is natural that the people of the Newtons continue to offer their friendship and assistance to perpetuate the renowned national tennis matches.

"More than 65 United States and foreign players were given lodgings last summer in the Newtons. Over 17 foreign countries were represented." If interested in extending a welcome to either American or foreign tennis players and providing temporary lodgings while the players are actively engaged in the tournament, write to Mrs. Barry of National Doubles, Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Donald F. Howes of Ashfield, president of the Fellowship, presided. The featured speaker at the evening service was Dr. Vera Michelles Dean of New York, research director and editor, Foreign Policy Association.

Highlands Youth Wins 3 Ivy League Scholarships

Brian Kenney of Newton Highlands, outstanding scholar and athlete at Newton High School, has been offered national academic scholarships to three Ivy League colleges—Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth.

The 17-year old senior, oldest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Kenney of 151 Plymouth road, was notified this week of the awards, each for approximately $6000 for four years of study. Harvard's scholarship was one it grants to ten of the country's outstanding high school students.

He has made a remarkable scholastic record at N.H.S. where he has been a "Kenyon Plan" student for three years taking many college level courses. He is a member of the National Honor Society. In addition, Kenney was fullback for the football team and played varsity baseball.

Born in Newton, he attended the Hyde School and Weeks Junior High where he was on the honor roll as well as on the football, baseball and basketball teams. He was also a star pitcher for the Newton South Little League team when it was first formed several years ago. Kenney golfs for relaxation and works during the summer as a recreation leader at the Thompsonville Playgroup.

Another feature of the anniversary weekend of the club, famous as the site of the first squash courts built in this country, will be the annual Spring Dinner-Dance this Saturday night at the Hotel Somerset. The Newton Squash and Tennis Club, with its red clay courts held by tennis authorities to be among the finest in New England, has been selected as the site of the N.E. Tennis Championships. This tournament will be held in conjunction with the club's annual Middlesex Bowl tourney starting Saturday, June 1 at 11 A.M.

By a vote of 14 to 2 to Board of Aldermen this week adopted an ordinance calling for the installation of pedestrian-controlled traffic signal lights at the intersection of Centre and Wards street. The lights had been sought by Joseph Greenbaum, president of Temple Emmanuel, which is located in that section.

Audermen Harry H. Ham and William M. Powers cast the two votes in opposition to the measure.

During the discussion of the question it was brought out that Alderman Leo M. Cannon narrowly escaped death in an accident at that intersection some time ago. Cannon voted for the installation of the pedestrian lights.

Alderman Hirsh Sharf of Chestnut Hill declared that it is now almost impossible for anyone to cross the street at that location. He termed it "a very dangerous corner" and one that is passed by large numbers of children on school days.

Alderman Charles H. Groves observed that a similar petition "has been before us in one form or another ever since I have been on the board."

Richard Lessoff of Newton Centre has mapped for himself a most interesting year. He plans to work in Israel's agricultural settlements for a 12-month period. He will be a member of a group of young Americans contributing to the building of the country. The program is under sponsorship of the agricultural-study project in Israel.

The new measure would not come within the State's jurisdiction since it applies only to the section of the road in Newton, Powers asserted.

Salaun-Junta To Feature Tennis Match

An exhibition tennis match between Henri Salaun, ranked No. 1 in New England and Dale Junta, captain of the Harvard tennis team and No. 1 N.E. Inter-collegiate player, will feature the annual Open House being held at the Newton Squash and Tennis Club, Newton Centre, this Sunday afternoon, May 26th. The exhibition tennis matches are being held in conjunction with the 23rd anniversary weekend celebration of the Newton Club.

The other matches scheduled Mrs. Baba Madden Lewis will meet Margaret Varner in women's singles and in men's doubles. Dr. Don Manchester pairs with Bill Powers against Summer and Bert Rodman, all ranking New England players. Matches begin at 1:45 with the Women's Singles. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Active for years in work for retarded children, he formerly served as president of the Boston Association for Retarded Children. He was nominated for president of the State organization without opposition, an implied recognition of the value of his contributions to the important cause.

Gov. Furcolo To Speak At Commencement

Governor Foster Furcolo, was announced today as the Commencement Speaker for the 10th graduating exercises of Newton Junior College, June 7. Students, faculty, and notables will form the commencement procession to enter the Civil Memorial Auditorium, Commonwealth Ave., Newton Centre at 7 p.m. sharp.

Governor Furcolo, author of the federal scholarship plan to aid needy students and proponent of a system of public junior colleges in Massachusetts, is the first governor to support plans for expansion of publicly-controlled junior colleges in Massachusetts. This will be his first appearance in Newton in support of educational programs.

The Governor is a graduate of both Yale College and Law School, an experienced attorney, a Navy veteran, formerly (1949-1952) a representative to the United States Congress—where a national press-radio poll named him one of the ten outstanding members of the 81st Congress and Bernard Baruch termed him a "man of great wisdom . . . with a penetrating mind."

The Furcols, a family with five children, presently make their home in Newton.

The College commencement is open to the public.

$134,000 of Public Improvements in Newton To be Asked of Aldermen at Monday Meeting

Thousands Attend Memorial Rites

Newton, Mass. Thursday, May 30, 1957 Vol. 81, No. 22

City Pioneers Plan ...

Nursery School Classes Are Stauchly Defended

Nursery school classes quartered in Newton public schools, which were the subject of debate at the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen, have some outspoken champions and strong defenders among parents and educators.

While the Aldermen are looking into the matter after the propriety of holding such classes in public school buildings had been sharply questioned, supporters of the plan maintained that it has tremendous value and pointed out that it imposes no expense upon the city.

Rooms are provided for the nursery classes only in schools where space is available and can be spared, it was asserted.

Under a cooperative arrangement, parents pay the salaries of the nursery class teachers and assume incidental expenses.

The program is making educational history. Newton is the first city in Massachusetts and one of only three or four communities in the United States to allow nursery classes in its public school buildings.

These classes, attended by children of pre-kindergarten age, are now located in five Newton schools.

Officials Named To Met. Council

In his capacity as chairman of the Metropolitan Council of Municipal Officials, Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., has appointed eight prominent men in eight different communities as members of an organizational committee.

The members he selected are Mayor Lawrence W. Lloyd of Melrose; Chairman George V. Brown of the Brookline Selectmen; Mayor Amelio Dell Chiesa of Quincy; Chairman William R. Dewey of the Weston Selectmen; Mayor John B. Lyons of Boston; Town Manager, Edward C. Monahan of Arlington; Mayor William G. Shaughnessy of Woburn; Chairman George B. Thomson of the Brookline Selectmen.

Mayor Whitmore will be an ex-officio member of the board.

Home Ransacked

The home of David White at 71 Hammondswood road, was ransacked over the past weekend, while members of the White family were away. Police reported that the thieves gained entrance through a second-story porch window.

POLITICAL OVERTONES

Former Boston Post Political Editor

State Republicans Face Task To Find Opponent for Kennedy

The Republican high command in Washington has decreed that the Massachusetts GOP must nominate a formidable candidate to run against U.S. Senator John F. Kennedy in next year's State election.

This is causing some concern for Bay State Republican leaders who believe that it would be sounder and shrewder strategy to concentrate on regaining the Governorship and forget about Kennedy.

Not only are they fearful that a fight against Kennedy might prove to be futile waste of time and money, but they are apprehensive that if the junior Senator is pushed into waging an all-out campaign it might strengthen Furcolo's prospects of achieving reelection.

Top Republican leaders on the national level refuse to accept that reasoning. They are unwilling to allow Kennedy to have a second term without a contest. They concede that the chances of defeating him are not bright, but they do not regard him as invincible.

More important than that, however, they point out that if the GOP does not nominate a legitimate and bona-fide candidate, they will be blamed for failing to support the party's best chance of regaining the Governorship.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall, in the traditional Memorial Day address in Newton Cemetery today, stressed the need for maintaining great military and economic might as the surest guarantee for peace in a troubled world.

He emphasized that potential aggressors must be kept convinced "that any attack upon the United States would mean instant and devastating retaliation."

His words followed closely the theme and the tone of President Eisenhower's second speech on the importance of a strong national defense.

The address of the senior Bay State Senator was one of the highlights of a colorful program in which Newton paid solemn and impressive tribute to its revered and cherished dead.

Thousands viewed the striking parade which swung along in precise marching fashion behind Mayor Howard Whitmore.

Mayor Praises B.C. For Series of Seminars

Business and government have recently evidenced a more rational approach to each other's problems and the nation will become stronger economically when each recognizes its responsibility, Mayor Howard Whitmore Jr. told the fourth annual conference on economic problems at Boston College.

The Mayor congratulated B. C. in its series of seminars and expressed his confidence that they would aid materially in advancing the best interests of Boston and New England as a whole.

The Mayor's address was as follows:

"Once again it is a real privilege for me to extend a warm and hearty welcome to all of you in the name of the people of Newton. We are indeed fortunate and truly proud to be the municipal home of Boston College. Most of us here today have enjoyed the gracious and cordial hospitality of the college.

Nahanton Street Issue Strictly Up To Newton

The question of the appearance, safety and general adequacy of Newton's Nahanton street was getting top drawer consideration at Newton's City Hall this week.

That's as it should be in a delicate matter of high level diplomacy between neighboring communities which have always managed to get along pretty well.

At Needham Town Hall each Selectman was scanned to see if it contained a letter from Newton City Hall. At the office of the Mayor it was announced that Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., had the matter under consideration and would make an announcement concerning it in due time.

Nahanton street was, of course, the matter under consideration.

Last week Chairman Philip F. Foss in a message to Mayor

Pink and Blue Nighties Stolen

Thieves wit' an obvious taste for feminine finery carried away two ladies' nightgowns, one pink and one blue, after ransacking a bedroom and den in the home of David Schwartz of 22 Maynard street. They also took $6 in cash.

Police said the burglars apparently entered the dwelling through an unlocked rear bedroom window.

Newton Alderman Named To Needham School Post

A Newton alderman will shortly become one of the youngest school administrators in Massachusetts.

He is 32-year-old William M. Powers who has been appointed to the newly created, $8000-a-year position as assistant superintendent of Needham schools.

His selection came after a year's search by the Needham School Committee. Powers was chosen on the basis of his combined educational, teaching and supervisory experience.

Powers will assume his new duties this summer and will work with Needham School Superintendent Derwood A. Newman on problems of administration, curriculum, development and personnel.

He is now completing his

53 To Get Degrees At Newton College of Sacred Heart

The eighth annual commencement exercises of the Newton College of the Sacred Heart will be held at the college next Tuesday, June 4. Archbishop Cushing will confer degrees upon 53 candidates.

An appropriation of $3800 also is being sought by the public works head for the installation of a drain and sewer in Edgewater park. They are to be built at West Pine street south-easterly for a distance of 250 feet.

A total of $25,922 is being sought by the water commission for the extension of water mains in four locations.

The biggest of the four jobs involves the proposed extension of the water main in Wayne road at an estimated cost of $15,020.

Another sizeable project to be considered concerns the suggested extension of the water main on Karen road and an allowance of $1210 for the extension of the water line in Vose terrace.

The director of public works is seeking an appropriation of $10,000 for the construction of a drain and sewer in Edgewater park. They are to be built at West Pine street south-easterly for a distance of 250 feet.

An appropriation of $3800 also is being sought by the public works head for the installation of a drain and sewer in Parker road. They would be constructed a distance of 125 feet, starting at Truman road.

The appropriation measures all have been referred to the Board of Aldermen's finance and public works committee.

Time To Clean Cellar Before Fire Inspection

That penny which served to outside; cozy, tastefully appointed and liveable within. Currently it's spring-cleaning time.

That big cardboard container near the heater down cellar filled beyond its capacity with inflammable rags and paper . . .

That accumulation of things on the attic stairs you never did get around to arranging . . .

That pile in the garage with its assortment of articles you didn't know whether to cart to the dump or maybe save . . .

Taken singly or in the aggregate they could serve sometime to take the life of you or your loved ones. They are the kind of hazards which help to start fires—the kind of things which help fires spread rapidly.

And fire—particularly in the dead of night is a dangerous implement.

There isn't a better residential city extant than Newton. Newton is a city of fine homes—pretty and eye-pleasing on the outside; cozy, tastefully appointed and liveable within.

Currently it's spring-cleaning time.

Members of the city's fire prevention bureau are of the opinion that no spring cleaning task can be considered complete until all the fire hazards are eliminated.

$75,000 to Prepare Site of New School Top Item

Appropriation orders amounting to more than $134,000 intended to finance a variety of proposed public improvements, will be on the docket for consideration at next Monday night's meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

Topping the list of measures are suggested expenditures for $75,000 to cover preliminary work on the site of the South Side High School to be built in the Oak Hill district.

One order calls for the appropriation of $15,000 to pay for clearing the high school site. Another provides for the expenditure of $60,000 for the installation of a drainage system at the area where the new school is to be erected.

A $20,000 appropriation has been recommended by the director of public works for the construction of a pumping station off Edgewater Park.

A total of $25,922 is being sought by the water commission for the extension of water mains in four locations.

The biggest of the four jobs involves the proposed extension of the water main in Wayne road at an estimated cost of $15,020.

Another sizeable project to be considered concerns the suggested extension of the water main on Karen road and an allowance of $1210 for the extension of the water line in Vose terrace.

At the close of the conference Pilsbury, Gradone and Foley will be presented with workshop scholarships sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The Body Wave is a form of permanent waviness used on hair that either has a little natural wave or hair that was cut straight. It does not add appreciably to the amount of wave already in the hair, but gives much more definition to the hair to make the hair seem naturally wavy and remarkably easy to put up. It is safe to which the ordinary permanent wave (however soft) gives too much curl. It is not generally advisable for straight hair.

Eases Transition

The program has the blessing of the city's school department. Dr. Richter, who has been interested in the classes since their inception, feels that they provide a valuable experience for the child, making the adjustment to actual school life easier and the job of the kindergarten teacher less difficult.

Those who object to the idea point out that kindergarten was the class originally intended to bridge the gap between home and school. They also contend that nursery schools operating within public buildings cost the taxpayer money even though the costs may be hidden. Parents whose children attend some of Newton's more crowded schools find it difficult to understand how space can possibly be available in school areas which may be adjacent to theirs.

Still others argue that all schools for four-year-olds, public or private, are little more than babysitting services and offer no more social experience than can be gained in old-fashioned, mother-supervised neighborhood play.

Status Probed

The Newton Board of Aldermen has requested an opinion from the City Solicitor on the legality of these schools.

In general, the nursery programs are very fluid and "child initiated". The day is built around a series of short units including work periods, juice time, rest, and indoor and outdoor free play. The actual activities planned are up to the individual teacher, as are the handling of any disciplinary or social problems. All the schools utilize the services of "helping teachers", student trainees from local schools, and in some the mothers come on a rotating schedule to help out.

Parents Pitch In

Parent participation is active. Not only do they make much of the equipment, but they take charge of special outings or projects, provide toys, books, and old clothes for dress-up, do painting and repairing of toys, and in general make up the price difference between cooperative and private nursery schools by contributions of their time and abilities. Tuition runs from $115 to $150 a year in the "cooperatives", whereas private nursery school fees generally start nearer $200 and can go much higher.

Early in April, the schools formed a council which will serve as an advisory association in matters of program, finances, enrollment, health standards, and new schools. Milton L. Kay is serving as chairman of the group, and Mrs. William Ranger Farrell is secretary. In attendance were representatives from each of the six schools.

Plenies To Parakeets

At Bowen, nursery classes are now in their second year, with Mrs. Albert Haines accepting registrations for fall. Plans at present call for Mrs. Florence Fried to return as teacher next year. Special spring projects this season include a playground picnic and a trip to a farm.

The nursery scheduled to open in September at the Cabot School will be conducted in the kindergarten room made available since the addition of a new wing to the school. Mrs. Louis Kleiman is in charge of enrollment. It is expected that many "field trips" into the nearby Cabot Woods will be a regular part of the curriculum.

Carr is completing its third nursery year.

Memorial was the first of the "public" nurseries and stemmed from the efforts of the Oak Hill Park Association to provide nursery care in the area. Now in its sixth year, it will accept the 38 oldest of the qualified applicants.

Oak Hill is unique in that it is housed in the new Meadowbrook Junior High. Parents have provided a giant sandbox and playhouse at the rear of Meadowbrook for the youngsters' enjoyment.

At Spaulding, Miss Lois Merit teacher, held a get-acquainted day for prospective pupils on April 2. This nursery is in its third year and major attractions on registration day were the two parakeets and two turtles, who are regular class members. Eighteen attend the morning sessions and eighteen are enrolled afternoons.

fact that in Newton the highway is called Nahanton street. In Needham it's Kendrick street. There's a difference, also in appearance. There are people in Needham who'll tell you Nahanton street, Newton, looks like a poor cousin of Kendrick street, Needham.

Chairman Foss pointed out the Nahanton-Kendrick street leads to an approach to the overpass at Route 128. Moreover it is a direct approach to the NIKE site battery in Needham; it's used by traffic to and from the new Needham industrial development.

Kendrick street, Mr. Foss implied, is in pretty good shape. It's a pleasure to drive over it. Nahanton street, again Mr. Foss was using polite implication, was something less than a modern highway might be. In fact, you didn't have to be a mind reader to realize that Mr. Foss doesn't think Nahanton street would walk off with any top prizes in a Best street contest.

All that called for diplomatic language and Mr. Foss is a very diplomatic man.

Of course, some brash people thought it was something akin to one neighbor telling another neighbor that her lawn would stand a bit of mowing—or that she should change the drapes of the side window in the living room.

But Mayor Whitmore is a diplomatic man, too.

He could see that there was nothing to be gained by rushing a reply back to Mr. Foss. Haste and diplomacy rarely go hand in hand.

So, he is considering the proper reply.

His answer should be ready within a few days.

Top Care For Dogs At Wonderland

A racing greyhound gets as much tender care as a baby when it comes to feeding and housing.

Look at a typical dog's menu at Wonderland and you'll realize that an owner can't afford to support a losing kennel very long.

The average racer eats a couple of pounds of food daily during the summer season. So nearly a ton of food is consumed every day by more than 600 greyhounds racing during this 23rd season at Revere.

These greyhounds have homes away from home. They sleep in nearby kennels and exercise in turnout pens every morning. Then after a hearty meal they nap on racing days until it's time to go to the track.

Baby foods, of course, are once at the track they are reserved for the puppies.

ADAAsks Furcolo Drop Sales Tax

Directors of the Massachusetts chapter of Americans for Democratic Action at a meeting in Springfield, attended by a number of delegates from Newton, recently urged Governor Furcolo to drop his sales tax proposal.

The board which is headed by Professor Samuel Beers of Harvard called upon the Governor to "renew his pledge to work for the enactment of a graduated income tax."

The board in resolutions on other matters called for reforms in the present tax structure and a study of the civil service tenure of subordinates in the Department of Correction for "possible obstructionism."

A Very Nice Habit

There was no dancing in the streets the other day when the Newton High School track team came home with the Class A championship of the 23rd annual State scholastic track meet.

No fireworks. No hasty summoning of the Chamber of Commerce to stage a big banquet. No parade from Boston's White Stadium to Newton City Hall.

It wasn't that Newton loves its young athletic heroes less than some of its neighbors love theirs. Newton's proud of them.

It's quietly proud because winning track championships is an old story with our Tigers. The last weekend triumph was the sixth in a row. In fact, Newton High has won the Class A honor 15 times out of 23 attempts. That's class and Newton High has class.

Perhaps, it will make no difference in their futures that our boys can run faster, jump higher and throw iron balls further than their neighbors.

We think it will.

Schools with consistently good athletes are schools which consistently turn out good all-around men, too. All hail to the 1957 Tigers!

Important Callers

Within a short time members of the Newton fire department will begin their annual task of checking homes and business places for the purpose of helping owners and occupants to eliminate fire hazards.

The inspection is in no sense of the word a search carried out to find a violation of the law.

It is designed to prevent one of the worst threats to safety of lives and property that can exist in any man-made building—fire.

Tops in any household spring-cleaning program should be the elimination of those accumulations which create the hazard of fire.

Through the winter and early spring that accumulation in the most orderly of homes can become a serious threat.

And what holds true in private homes can be extended to include mercantile and industrial places as well.

When the firemen come to one- and two-family homes they are obliged to obtain the consent of occupants to make their inspections. If the consent is withheld they will not make the inspection.

It could very well be that you are unconsciously permitting a fire hazard to exist in your home. If you are you will appreciate the kindly, friendly advice of the visitors.

Under instructions of Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., the firemen will be making their visits in the spirit of cooperation.

Their visits may well serve to prevent fire in your home.

They should be made welcome and their advice should be followed.

Political Overtones

fide candidate to run against Kennedy, some crackpot might grab the Republican nomination for U. S. Senate in next year's primary and then weaken the entire Republican State ticket in the subsequent election.

In a way the Republicans are profiting from the mistakes the Democrats made in conceding two different elections to Senator Leverett Saltonstall when a strong candidate might conceivably have defeated him either time.

The Democrats who ran against Saltonstall in 1944 and 1948 were not crackpots. Neither, however, were they public figures of real stature. They had no strong appeal to the voters, and they certainly did not wage energetic campaigns against the present Senior Massachusetts Senator.

A Maurice J. Tobin, a Paul A. Dever or a John F. Kennedy would have given Saltonstall a terrific fight in either 1944 or 1948 and might have defeated him. Foster Furcolo, who cannot compare with any one of those three as a vote-getter, proved that in 1954 when he gave Saltonstall a close race after making a rather ordinary campaign.

That is not intended as any reflection upon Saltonstall. The fact is that Democratic tides were running in both '44 and '48, but the Democratic party in Massachusetts didn't have anyone in the U. S. Senate fight either year who could take advantage of the trend. Republican leaders have determined that they will not repeat that mistake.

So in the next 12 months the GOP chieftains in Massachusetts must find some Republican of stature and standing who is willing to carry the party banner against Kennedy. To assure getting a strong candidate a promise probably will be made that if he is defeated he will be rewarded with an appointment to a high federal post.

New Law Blow To Bookies

Now Face Jail Sentences

Even before the late, somewhat unlamented State Crime Commission came into being, Attorney General George Fingold advocated a mandatory jail sentence for bookies.

His advocacy of the measure came as soon as he assumed office for his first term back in 1953. Through his long experience in gambling cases as an assistant Attorney General he knew the strength of the gambling over-lords. He knew the best methods for attack on or ganized gambling. He had proved that with a long succession of convictions.

For some reason or other, the Legislature was loathe to go along with his suggestion that mandatory jail sentences would be a most powerful ally of law-enforcement officers.

Now that a law has been enacted providing that bookies must be sent to jail on their second conviction, the occupation of bookmaking will have to be listed among the careers that are not only dishonorable but hazardous as well.

Only the most naive are silly enough to believe that "those poor bookies" were putting up the fines which they were compelled to pay after the police nabbed them. That money obviously came out of the exchequers of the bosses.

The bosses simply paid the fines. The bookie got one lecture from the judge and another from his employer. "Don't do it again," said the judge. "You gotta be more careful of them cops in the future," said the boss. Then the bookie went back to work.

The bosses merely checked up the fines against the cost of doing business. It was overhead. Actually, it was cheap overhead. The bookies didn't mind too much—just the inconvenience of having to go to court.

The bookie could shrug off a $50 fine somebody else paid for him. He'll think twice before he'll risk a jail sentence which no one but himself is going to serve. The turnover in the bookie trade is going to be heavy. The recruitment of new bookies is going to be tough.

Attorney General Fingold's ideas of 1953 are apt to be a far more crippling blow to organized gambling than the many-paged 1957 report of the Crime Commission.

One of our correspondents, remembering the "Pardon the Inconvenience" signs of the Dever administration, wonders if the "We're Sorry! We're Embarrassed" advertisements of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority are likely to be borrowed by the Furcolo organization for the next State election campaign. A good question, indeed!

And another letter-writer suggests that persons planning automobile excursions would do well to avoid Concord, N. H. She says the police there wait for out-of-state cars travelling a few miles above the speed limit, flag them down and take them to the police station where they are fined $15. New Hampshire-registered vehicles travelling at an even faster clip are not molested, she reports. Maybe they have a deficit in Concord. Anyway, we pass the information along in a spirit of helpfulness.

House Vote on Death Sentence Referendum Reverse for Governor

The action of the House of Representatives in killing one proposal in Governor Furcolo's bright outline of things he wanted done—back in his first days in office—certainly had all the elements of a surprise reverse play on the football field.

Just a few weeks back it appeared to be a lead pipe cinch that this session would go along with His Excellency and put up to the electorate the question of whether the State should retain the electric chair.

That seemed to be a good way out of what was becoming an intolerable situation. For 10 years Mr. Furcolo's predecessors on Beacon Hill had found one way or another to escape that awful last night when someone over in Charlestown's old State Prison was scheduled to eat his final meal and walk his last few steps in this world.

They used their powers of office, if need be, to commute the sentences of the doomed men, due to forfeit their lives for murder. For 10 years the Governors succeeded in negating the chair.

The inspection is in no sense of the word a search carried out to find a violation of the law.

It is designed to prevent one of the worst threats to safety of lives and property that can exist in any man-made building—fire.

Tops in any household spring-cleaning program should be the elimination of those accumulations which create the hazard of fire.

Through the winter and early spring that accumulation in the most orderly of homes can become a serious threat.

And what holds true in private homes can be extended to include mercantile and industrial places as well.

When the firemen come to one- and two-family homes they are obliged to obtain the consent of occupants to make their inspections. If the consent is withheld they will not make the inspection.

It could very well be that you are unconsciously permitting a fire hazard to exist in your home. If you are you will appreciate the kindly, friendly advice of the visitors.

Under instructions of Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., the firemen will be making their visits in the spirit of cooperation.

Their visits may well serve to prevent fire in your home.

They should be made welcome and their advice should be followed.

Does He Favor Sales Tax?

Attorney Joseph P. Healey, the new State Tax Commissioner, drafted Governor Furcolo's limited 3 percent sales tax bill and appeared before the legislative committee on taxation in favor of it.

But now a doubt has been raised as to whether Healey is actually for a sales tax, against it or neutral on the issue. Whatever his position may be, one thing seems clear. That is that two of the State's top Democratic leaders obviously have their signals crossed.

When Healey's nomination as Tax Commissioner was before the Governor's Council for confirmation, Councillor Charles J. Gabriel announced that he was going to vote to confirm Healey's appointment but added that this did not mean he was for the sales tax.

In the discussion which ensued two conflicting statements were made as to what Mr. Healey really thinks about the sales tax. Said Governor Furcolo: "It is my understanding that Mr. Healey believes there is no answer to the State's fiscal problem other than a sales tax."

Said Lieutenant Governor Murphy: "Mr. Healey indicated to me as late as yesterday that he is not necessarily in favor of a sales tax."

Apparently, you pay your money and take your pick.

Brass Quintet Holds Four Concerts In Schools Here

Some of the elementary school children who heard the N. Y. Brass Quintet this week had the unusual experience of being invited to the stage to try a turn on the Tuba. This is a typical example of the informality of all the Young Audiences' school concerts, and one of the features which make this series unique.

The performance of the Brass Quintet at four Newton schools, Oak Hill, Claffin, Ward and Hyde, was the final concert in the Young Audiences' music series for this year. These concerts, bringing fine artists into the schools to play great music are sponsored and financed by the individual schools' Parent-teachers Associations. The series is planned in such a way that the diverse instrumental groups presented really constitute a whole course in music covering a wide range of subject matter: music appreciation, history or music, instruments and their uses, rhythm, etc.

This concert was of a high level consistent with those given previously. Each musician, act

Criticizes Parade Route

Editor:

It has come to my attention that the Mayor decided to use Commonwealth avenue for this year's Memorial Day Parade route. The decision of the Mayor is to be deplored in view of the problems which have been created by reason of the greatly increased traffic on that thoroughfare from the Massachusetts Turnpike.

The relations of the City and its elected officers with the Chairman of the Authority, have already been strained to the limit over the projected route of the extension of the Turnpike into Boston.

If the Mayor selected the Parade route to further his apparently personal feud with the Chairman of the Authority, it is certainly time to call a halt in the interests of the City. Nothing can be gained by further antagonizing Mr. Callahan and his associates, especially if alternatives are available, as they undoubtedly are in the case of the Parade route.

Sometimes I wonder if the Mayor has forgotten the residents of the South Side of the City who have for years put up with extremely aggravating traffic bottle-necks at Brookline Village, Kenmore square and Chestnut Hill which the extension would tend to alleviate. Furthermore, where Newton does lie astride the western approaches to Boston, can we reasonably expect all the other people in the Commonwealth to subordinate their best interests to ours?

Obviously, the answer is to make the best of a poor situation rather than make it worse. Perhaps the saddest part of the story is that our own representatives voted to create this entire problem and raised no voice in protest when other access roads into Boston which created problems for other cities and towns were proposed and carried into effect.

Tenley Thanks Graphic

Editor:

Your generous contribution of newspaper coverage to the 1957 Easter Seal campaign is very much appreciated by the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped.

Not only have you given new hope to many crippled children and adults, but you also have helped to strengthen public interest and understanding of the physically handicapped.

It appears that we shall not meet our goal, a fact which is disappointing, but we shall adjust our program accordingly, accepting the important principle of voluntary giving which allows each person to determine in not only the amount of his gift, but whether or not he will give at all.

ON HILDY ELLIS

Editor, Newton Graphic:

As we give thanks for Governor Leroy Collins' just and humanitarian decision in the Hildy Ellis adoption case, let us not lose sight of the fact that what happened to Mr. and Mrs. Ellis could happen to future foster parents in Massachusetts, and probably only in this State.

Therefore, it is imperative that steps be taken to guard against a repetition of this affair which has excited the sympathy of the entire country. The law which reads: "When practicable, a child should be placed for adoption, with foster parents of similar faith as the natural mother," should designate that such law applies only to prospective foster parents but (in the name of justice) and their foster children, who have become attached to each other. No law can justify going into a man's home and demanding that he give up his foster child merely by declaring the man "a kidnapper." This is indeed "synthetic" justice, as Governor Leroy Collins so mercifully recognized.

Dedication of New Girl Scout Camp Held Sunday

About 2250 persons attended the open house and dedication of the Newton Girl Scout Council's Camp Wabasso in Bradford, N. H., last Sunday. The theatre hall was filled to capacity for the exercises after which the parents and guests toured the grounds and inspected the camp site.

The camp, located about 100 miles from Newton, will be opened for its first season June 30 and will close eight weeks later on Aug. 24. The site includes 100 acres of woods, meadows and rolling hills with modern building and equipment which are in excellent condition, and will serve 100 girls at each two week encampment. There already is a waiting list for all four camping sessions.

Scout officials, Girl Scouts, Brownies, invited guests and parents were welcomed by Robert Bristol, Selectman from Sutton, N. H.

The silver key was presented to Mrs. Thomas H. Derr, president of the Newton Girl Scout Council by the former owner, Mrs. James A. Rawson.

Mrs. Rawson gave the history of the campsite, where a private camp had been conducted for 35 years. Miss Elizabeth Richardson, Executive Director of the Newton Council who will serve as the Camp Director this summer stressed the importance of camping in providing girls and leaders with the "opportunities to learn skills which would enrich their future life. Sharing the work and having fun with others was an important part of camping."

The spiritual values in life were stressed by Rev. John Schroeder of New London, N. H. Rev. Walter Blankenship, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Parish, New London, N. H., gave the invocation and Rabbi Bela Fisher, of Nashua gave the benediction.

Miss Guy King, 1956 camp coordinating chairman, discussed why the Girl Scouts needed the camp.

Mrs. Arthur T. Gregorian, former president of the Newton Council and New Camp Fund drive chairman, expressed her appreciation to Newton residents and community-minded friends of Girl Scouting for "their generous and wholehearted support" during the fund drive. She stressed however that some pledges made during the camp drive had not been lege on similar occasions over the past three years.

"We continue to be very grateful to our hosts and look forward eagerly and enthusiastically not only to the discussions we are about to hear, but also to another opportunity to meet friends and neighbors socially."

"In his letter of invitation to join in this citizens' meeting to discuss the subject of 'improving the business climate of Massachusetts' the Reverend W. Seavey Joyce, Dean of the College of Business Administration, stated that '... more attention is being devoted every day to this new kind of climate—to the attitude of government toward industry and the attitude of industry toward government.'

"This is certainly a noteworthy statement—one which is a challenge to us for thought and action. It is the keynote of this fourth annual conference on economic problems of the Boston area. In the minds of too many of our citizens there is the erroneous feeling or impression that business and government are antagonists, that they are pulling in opposite directions and that they appear either unwilling or incapable of working together constructively for the advancement of the economic and social welfare of all citizens. Business often blames government and government too frequently accuses business of being domineering, dictatorial and grasping."

"Fortunately, of late a more rational approach has been evidenced in their relations. A better understanding of the problems of each is developing. One of the many and diverse responsibilities of government is to aid in the promotion of free enterprise and to encourage and assist the growth of business. On the other hand, business and industry have an obligation to understand the problems of government and to contribute their fair share to the full support of government, not only in a material way, through taxes, but also by helping to frame and develop policies which will advance the social standards of our people."

"While the broad subject to be discussed at this conference varies somewhat from those of previous conferences, it seems to be they have many ingredients in common. They all concern matters of vital importance to the metropolitan area. They are being discussed at a time when not only the population of the area is shifting, but also, as we would expect, the centers of business and industry are changing. There are problems involved which require thorough analysis, thoughtful study, an unselfish, cooperative approach and coordinated overall planning.

Is Nominated To State Parole Board

Dr. Cecelia McGovern of Chestnut Hill, nominated by Governor Furcolo for appointment to the State Parole Board, will bring to that board a brilliant background of experience.

She makes her home at 114 Beacon street and has a wide circle of friends in Newton and nearby communities.

She has studied at Regis College, the Boston College School of Social Work, the Institute of Human Relations at Yale University and the school of sociology at Yale. Her degrees include a bachelor of arts from Regis in 1936, a master of science from Boston College in 1938; a master of arts and philosophy doctorate from Yale in 1940 and 1943, respectively.

Appointed to the Youth Service Board of the State in 1949 she served for six years. In 1943-1946 she was associated with the New England region of the Federal Security Agency at its Boston office.

She has long been consultant for the National Conference of Catholic Charities in Washington.

Dr. McGovern is author of "In-Service Training Program in Institutions."

She has been nominated to succeed Mary B. Newman, recently resigned from the Parole Board.

Governor Furcolo asked the Executive Committee to suspend its rules and return an immediate confirmation of Dr. McGovern's appointment.

He withdrew his request, however, when Councillor Christian A. Hertler, Jr., requested additional time to study the appointment. Councillor Hertler quickly explained that he wanted to make it clear that he was not pre-judging the appointment.

The Council will take up the question of confirmation at its next meeting, June 6.

Donald Rossman Given Bar Mitzvah Party

A Bar Mitzvah Party was held by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rossman of Harvard Circle, Newtonville in honor of their son, Donald, on Saturday, May 18.

Following the morning service, Donald, a seventh grade student of the Day School, extended an invitation to his classmates to attend a preview of a first run Cinemascope picture. Attending were: Gale Eggerman, Donna Resh, Marjorie Levi, Janet Shapiro, Barry Sarner, Martin Wolfson, Robert Spinner, Richard Nathan, Frank Neal, Leland Price, Norman Price, Richard Katz and Bertram Clark.

On Sunday, May 19, a reception for his family and friends was held at the Banai Moshe Temple in Brighton.

Rear Admiral George Dufek was the first American to set foot on the geographic South Pole. He was the first man to stand at the exact bottom of the world since Britain's Capt. Robert F. Scott, 44 years before.

Vocal lessons are popular, and the flute is enjoying a vogue, but of course, says Mrs. Worth,

PINCH-HITTING AS PIANO TEACHER is among the myriad duties performed by Mrs. Mabel C. Worth who retires next week after 25 years as executive director of the All-Newton Music School. She is shown here supervising the lesson of Marjory Shepard of 33 Alexander Rd., Newton Highlands, whose teacher was ill. Mrs. Worth has functioned mainly in administrative and organizational capacities at the school since 1932.

Mrs. Worth Cited For Impact On City's Musical Culture

Newton parents today want music for their children for exactly the same reasons parents wanted music for their children in the thirties said Mrs. Mabel Worth as she prepared to retire from the post as executive director of the All-Newton Music School after 25 years of service.

In a rare hour spent looking backwards, Mrs. Worth asserted that very few parents wish their children to become professional musicians. Their goals in general, she said, are one with those of the school — they want their youngsters to enjoy music in the home, in school, in college, in adult life and in community service — and with to enrich and round out the cultural experiences of their lives.

Mrs. Worth, who was guest of honor at a reception which followed the music school's 46th annual spring concert last Wednesday night at the Beethoven School, was cited for her devotion to her work and her impact on the musical culture of the community. Following a congratulatory message by Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., she was presented with a diamond-studded watch and a check from trustees, parents and teachers at the school.

Since coming to the music school in 1932, Mrs. Worth has noted a definite shift in the popularity of band instruments. "The strings have suffered," she says. "Nowadays everyone wants to play a wind instrument so they can be in the band and perform in a relatively short time. The brasses are easier to learn in the beginning," she admits, "and no one can hear a sour note or two over the noise of the band! You have to be a much better player before you can really perform on a stringed instrument," she declared.

Vocal lessons are popular, and the flute is enjoying a vogue, but of course, says Mrs. Worth.

Then came her marriage to William C. Worth and a busy period devoted to caring for home and husband, and eventually two small daughters. The family moved to West Newton in 1930, and Mrs. Worth's first contact with the music school was through her daughter, Mabel, who studied violin there with Miss Fyffe. She is now Mrs. Nicholas Juliani of Wellesley Hills. Another daughter, Jean, is a legal secretary, and makes her home at 23 Perkins St., with her parents.

This pleasant and capable lady plans to make the most of her retirement. "After so many years of being busy," she said, "I am really looking forward to domesticity. I am going to try to be a lady of leisure and to do some of the things I enjoy that I've had little time for, such as painting, handwork, and possibly some writing." Mrs. Worth also expressed the hope of being more active in club and other activities at the Second Church in West Newton where she had been a member since 1921.

Among the scores who gathered at last week's reception to pay tribute to the musical foundations Mrs. Worth has been so influential in building here, were those who arranged the party: Mrs. Loomis Patrick, Roland MacDonald, Mrs. Sylvester McGinn, Mrs. David Bergmark, Mrs. Ernest Dietz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Balos, Miss Irene Forte, Mrs. Mary Scipione, Miss Marion Chidsey, Mrs. Forrest Goldsmith, Mrs. Erich Aenberg and Mrs. B. Alden Thresh.

Businessmen Urge New Parking Area

A petition by Fred Fox, secretary of the Nonantum Businessmen's Association, for the establishment of a municipal off-street parking area on vacant land on Adams street, has been referred by Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., to the municipal parking and meters committee of the Board of Aldermen for study.

more Jr., and other officials.

A strong note of sadness underscored rites at the Soldiers' Lot in Newton Cemetery and at the G.A.R. Memorial. Tears dampened many eyes as the strains of taps rolled across the green slopes of the cemetery.

Traffic was extremely heavy on Newton's main thoroughfares as countless thousands made their yearly pilgrimage to cemeteries to kneel at the final resting places of loved ones and recall the bright memories of yesterday.

"Our relationships with all nations must be built on trust and confidence. We must continue to keep our word once given. When we have made firm commitments like the U.N. Charter, we must keep those commitments. Our leadership will thus be one of responsibility and honor.

"Finally, here at home we must maintain the moral and spiritual strength without which no nation can endure," Saltonstall said.

"To these men we owe a great debt — a debt which neither we nor succeeding generations will ever repay," he continued.

"They know why they fought and died. We know the message they have left us. They sought an ideal. They wanted a world free from any dangers of the horror, the anguish and the sorrow which only war can bring. They wanted men to be free to govern themselves and to bring up their children with hope and confidence in the future. They wanted peace, and freedom, and justice," Saltonstall declared.

"These are the goals so clearly set for us. It is our task to bring them into being.

"We must recognize and understand two factors in the world today. One is the existence of a ruthless potential aggressor nation in Soviet Russia.

Newton Tracksters Win State Class-A Victory

Around sterling performances by John Head, Pete Nelson and Brian Haye, Newton High, wove enough extra points to win the 23rd annual State outdoor track meet Class A championship for the sixth consecutive time last weekend.

The Tigers amassed a total of 36 points to nose out Rindge Tech with 34. It was the 15th time Newton has walked off with top Class A honors. Weymouth was third with 23½, Brookline, fourth with 17½ and Malden, fifth with a 17-point total.

The meet, held at White Stadium, on Friday and Saturday,

John Head went over the low hurdles in 19.7 secs. to tie the record set by Fran Washington of Boston Trade, back in 1953.

Brian Haye came up with a beautifully paced race in the mile to emerge in front by 25 yards over New Joyner of Roxbury Memorial.

His time was 4 minutes 35.5 secs.

In the quarter-mile, Latin's Davidson took an early lead, with Eldridge Jackson of Rindge hanging on him like a shadow. The rest of the field bunched behind them.

Going into the curve, Ron Lawrence of Boston English came out of nowhere to take second place. It wasn't until 50 yards from the finish that Pete Nelson took the lead. He held it the rest of the way, while Davidson had trouble fighting off Lawrence for the runnerup spot.

John Haven got the Tigers some badly needed points when he tied for third in the pole vault with Munson of Brookline. In this event Kenneth Ericson of Weymouth broke the Class A record with an 11-feet 8½-inch vault.

Newton ran second to Rindge in the relay.

5 Get Webelos Awards at Pack 22 Indian Pow-Wow

The May meeting of Cub Scout Pack 22 was held at Underwood School on Friday night, May 10. Indian braves, chiefs, squaws, and papoose gathered for a pow-wow with Cubmaster Martin Rogers presiding. Indian costumes, dances, games, music and stories were the highlights of the individual den presentations.

Committee chairman Bud Angier conducted an impressive ceremony in which the following boys received their Webelos award: Bill Hunter, John Rattigan, Erland Russell, Bruce Garrison, and Stephen Roy.

Moderator of the discussion, held at the Beethoven School, was Arthur T. Gregorian, business and civic leader, whose wife is a former council president.

Pointing out that there are approximately 1100 adults working with the 3000 Newton Girl Scouts and Brownies, Mr. Gregorian emphasized the opportunities for service to the community which are open to fathers participating in Scouting.

Rev. Benjamin R. Andrews, Jr., minister of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, praised Scouting for its development of constructive use of leisure time with interests that remain with the girls their entire lives.

"In the world of the future, when working hours will be shortened, it will be important to know how to use leisure time wisely," he declared.

Girl Scouting as an instrument in the building of future good citizens was described by William Hardy Prentice, Newton alderman. Mr. Prentice urged that the girls attend city council meetings occasionally to gain an understanding of the operation of government, and pointed out that department heads in the city's governmental structure are ready and willing to instruct the youngsters in the workings of the administration.

The vice-president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, Joseph D. McLaughlin, predicted wider participation by labor groups in the future in community service, including the sponsoring by labor of Girl Scout troops. Mr. McLaughlin offered labor's help to the Girl Scout organization in the area of camping, where it has been shown, fathers can be of great aid in opening and closing camp facilities.
